COMMANDER TAKES BLAME FOR DESTROYER DISASTER

Capt. Watson in Testimony Would Exonerate Officers, but Navy May Not Permit

(BY CHARLES SLOAN "Times" Staff Correspondent) SAN DIEGO, Sept. 24.—That the sworn testimony of Capt. Edward H. Watson, commander of Destroyer Squadron No 11 when it was hurled upon the rocks of Pedernales Point, two weeks ago, differs flatly from other testimony previously given concerning certain radio compass bearings and that Capt. Watson, because of Navy regulations, may not be able to assume all responsibility for the disaster, were the two points brought out late today by Rear-Admiral William V. Pratt, chairman of the naval board of inquiry into the disaster.

As a result of this late hearing, it is entirely probable that certain witnesses will be recalled, with a possibility of changing the testimony of some of the officers. Capt. Watson turned the morning session of the board into a confessional. Saturday, his counsel announced that he desired to take the stand, to make a full explanation of the affair. It is asserted he has desired to do since the wreck occurred, but was prevented by his counsel to wait until some definite charge was preferred against him.

He was the sole witness today. He took up the beginning of that fatal cruise in San Francisco Harbor.

PLAN DEFI ACCEPTED

Oklahoma Called to Arms

Citizens Ordered to be in Readiness to Prevent Special Session

Militia to Disperse Every Gathering of Three or More in Capital

(BY PHILIP KINSLEY EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 24.—Gov. Walton tonight issued a military order to Adj. Gen. B. H. Markham directing him to disperse as an unlawful assembly the proposed meeting of the House of Representatives Wednesday. The order states that lives and property of citizens who are not aiding the "pretended assembly" or the Ku Klux Klan will be protected.

All male citizens of the State between the ages of 21 and 45 were directed in the order to hold themselves in readiness "with such arms as they possess, or can obtain, to come to the assistance of the sovereign State of Oklahoma when ordered to do so by the Governor."

Gov. Walton reiterated his charge that the proposed meeting would be an unlawful assembly "dominated and controlled by the so-called invisible empire, commonly known as the Ku Klux Klan."

DEFIANCE OF LAW He declared that since the Ku Klux Klan was proclaimed as an enemy of the State of Oklahoma under its martial law proclamation of the 15th inst., the session therefore would be in defiance of the laws of the State and an attempt to break the peace.

The legislators will assemble in the Capitol next Wednesday morning for the sole purpose of impeaching Gov. J. C. Walton. It is reported tonight that "rebel" headquarters in the Skirvin Hotel, fifty are said to be already in town.

They will caucus tomorrow night to elect a speaker.

The Capitol will be closed to them by the militia and no groups will be allowed to cross a deadline which the military will fix around the State House. Gov. Walton said today that wherever more than two persons are together they will be separated and sent away. He announced that he was bringing more troops into Oklahoma City to handle this situation.

Falling to get into the State House the legislators will attempt to meet somewhere else in the city. What will happen then no one can tell. Adj. Gen. Markham will be in charge of the troops. His martial law rule has been marked by inconspicuous firmness.

DOUBLE ISSUE While the issue, from a national standpoint, has been made Klan and anti-Klan by the Governor's fiery cross attitude, the issue in this city and State is "capable government."

"Bill" Murray, the man who wrote the Oklahoma Constitution and carried it around in his hip pocket for thirty days while agents of Theodore Roosevelt looked for him in the hectic days of 1907, when Statehood was forming, is in town, and is worried about the fate of his beloved document.

The anti-Walton men take the stand that the Constitution gives the Legislature the right to impeach the Governor and that in using force to prevent legislators from

BANDIT TRIO ESCAPES IN GUNBATTLE

Fleeing Hold-up Men Drop Part of Money Obtained in Bank Robbery

(BY A. P. NORTH WIRE) DENVER, Sept. 24.—Three armed bandits who held up the First State Bank at Arvada, a suburb of Denver, at noon today and made their getaway with $5000 in currency were still at large tonight with the major share of the money.

After the automobile in which the bandits were driving toward Denver broke down, the three hold-up men were routed in a gun fight when they attempted to steal a second automobile from a garage. In their retreat, the bandits dropped a bag containing $1500 of the stolen money.

The robbers entered the bank at noon and covered J. F. White, president and cashier, respectively, with revolvers and ordered them into a back room. A third man who entered during the hold-up was also herded into the back room.

FORESTERS ASK AID OF GRAND JURY

Prosecution of Persons Suspected of Causing Fires is Sought

(BY A. P. NORTH WIRE) SANTA BARBARA, Sept. 24.—Federal indictment for persons believed responsible for a number of disastrous forest fires in the Santa Barbara National Forest will be asked of the Federal grand jury in Los Angeles tomorrow by Supervisor Chester A. Jordan.

Mr. Jordan, accompanied by a representative of the Santa Barbara forestry headquarters, left for Los Angeles today to go before the grand jury.

Half a dozen persons are under suspicion, Mr. Jordan said, and indictments will be asked for at least three of them in connection with the Siquoc and Santa Inez fires which destroyed nearly 100,000 acres of timber and brush land.

All of the crews on the Santa Inez fire line were relieved today and only ten men, sent fresh from Santa Barbara this morning, are on patrol duty. Only smoldering coals now remain of the fire which raged on a twenty-five-mile front three days ago.

REFUGEES ARE HOME

Quake Witnesses at Bay City

President Pierce Bring in Seventy-five Passengers From Temblor Zone

Los Angeles Man Arrives With Party; Refuses to Talk of Horror

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 24.—Striving to blot from their memories the horror scenes of Yokohama and Tokio, more than three score disaster-stricken refugees from Japan reached San Francisco this morning on board the Pacific Mail liner President Pierce.

They comprised the first quota from earthquake-labeled Yokohama and Tokio to arrive in this port. Tonight those of them who call San Francisco home were recounting for relatives the terrifying moments when the tremor struck; the others were speeding by rail to the four corners of the country, where anxious relatives awaited their safe homecoming.

Almost without exception, they had lost their all in the Japanese disaster. Women whose husbands were dead or "missing" men who had lost their fathers or wives or children, and even children whose parents had suffered the fate of thousands of others were among the several hundred passengers on the liner.

HORROR STAMPS FACES

Some told their stories under questioning; others only said "no" or just shook their heads and walked away. There was evident an effort on their part to "cheer" but the things they had witnessed were too much, and the eyes of every refugee betrayed the soul-shaking horror that had been theirs.

The President Pierce was the third American ship to reach this side with those who were fleeing Japan.

In addition to the refugees, the Pierce brought the first motion picture record of the great disaster. As dawn light revealed the liner at rest in the harbor, launches put out from shore and within a few minutes, with the approval of port authorities, packages of film were lowered over the sides and were being rushed to developing rooms for exhibitions and distribution.

A few minutes later, the Pierce was boarded by a group of newspaper men and a few relatives of those on board, who had received special permission to board the vessel in midstream.

Newspaper men at first met stolid disinclination to talk on the part of the refugees.

CHANNEL OF BODIES Captain Hugh L. Jones, master of the vessel, sounded the keynote of horror when he told the

JAPAN WILL NEVER FORGET AMERICAN AID SAYS ENVOY

Ambassador Hanihara Lauds Work of Red Cross; Coolidge Extols Practical Idealism

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—America's open-handed sympathy in Japan's sorest need will forever drive from the Japanese mind all thoughts of "American aggressiveness in the Far East," Ambassador Hanihara said here tonight in an address before the opening session of the American Red Cross annual convention.

He spoke from the same platform where President Coolidge, head of the society, a few hours before had extolled the work of the organization as one of practical idealism, "helpful, reassuring and revealing the fundamental strength of civilization."

FANCIED THREATS
"It will henceforth be difficult, indeed," said the Japanese Ambassador, "for professional linguists to invent an ignorant public opinion to the point where it will countenance policies of military aggression on the ground of preparedness against fancied American threats. The natural reaction of a Japanese to mention of America will be that of a grateful and warm friendliness."

"I find," he said, "that I cannot enter this great room without profound emotion, stirred by memory. For, as you all know, it was here that the Washington conference had its dramatic beginning nearly two years ago and right here, a few months later, that conference bore its precious fruit in the signing of the Washington treaties by the representatives of the great nations which marked in my opinion, the greatest practical advance toward world peace that has ever been made."

DIFFICULT CIRCUMSTANCES
"And now I find myself here again in different circumstances. It is absolutely impossible for me to express to you, so that you will fully understand the depth of my feeling in facing you, the active representatives of the Red Cross. For events have transpired that may well prove to be more far-reaching in their importance than even the Washington treaties."

"The metropolitan area of Japan is torn to shreds by the forces of nature. The first shock of that dreadful news aroused your country's universal manifestation of genuine human sympathy. In the very moment of our sorest need you did not fail."

"Of course Japan will be grateful. Never—for we are a long people—will we forget your sympathy in this hour of our national distress. What seemed at first to be an unmitigated and horrible catastrophe is likely to leave in spite of the awful toll of death and bereavement—for Japan at least one bright spot."

SUPPLEMENT TO CONFERENCE
"The earthquake is in a sense a supplement to the Washington conference and its consequences show Japan's sincerity to America; the earthquake revealed to Japan the unstinted quality of the mercy in America's heart."

John Barton Payne, chairman of the society, Dr. W. F. Lorenz, director of the Wisconsin Psychiatric Institute, Director Hines of the Veterans Bureau, and Joseph H. R. Spence, chairman of the committee of the American Legion, also addressed the meeting.

Payne spoke particularly of the success of the organization's relief work in Japan, but the speakers devoted a large part of their time to a discussion of the welfare of World War veterans.

Declaring that there were 30,000 veterans confined in penal institutions, Sparks said the Legion believed their crimes were committed under the handicap of mental incompetency resulting from the war. Dr. Lorenz, detailing the results of a survey he had made, asserted the government was wasting $6,000,000 annually in paying $50 a month to mentally incompetent veterans, many of whom had no close relatives. He advocated a reduction.

Director Hines told of plans for improving hospital facilities, declaring the bureau intended to make these institutions the best in the world.

PRACTICAL SPIRITUALITY
A deep faith in spiritual things, tempered by a hard common sense adapted to the needs of the world, is the kind of practical idealism that is represented in the history of America, President Coolidge said.

Head of International Pressmen's Union Says This Is Return to Work—Pressmen Now Being Sent to New York to Take the Place of the Strikers

How Publishers Beat Outlaw Pressmen

When union pressmen in New York went on strike last week against the orders of the international organization the publishers of the morning and afternoon papers combined and published a consolidated paper morning and evening. Pressmen are now being sent to New York to take the place of the strikers.

NEW YORK PUBLISHERS WILL INCREASE SIZE OF PAPER

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Publishers' association officials arranged tonight to increase the size of New York's combined morning newspaper to sixteen pages tomorrow as the striking pressmen remained adamant and George L. Berry, president of the International Association of Journeymen Pressmen, asserted that the strike would continue.

The combined paper of the morning and afternoon pressmen arrived on the city here in a "hearty response" to his appeal for men to fill the vacancies.

It was expected that editorial and news department staffs would be increased to meet the demand for news. A limited amount of display space was expected to be available in the morning and afternoon. Publishers' committee was appointed to get to work.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—The various plans tonight for the biggest edition since the strike began a week ago.

Conflicting statements came throughout the day from officials of the international and the headquarters of the local union, which was declared dissolved after the international had held the strike illegal.

Spokesmen for the strikers insisted no union men from other cities had gone to work on affected papers, asserting any men who had been added to the depleted pressroom forces were neither journeymen nor members of a pressmen's union. They said their own ranks remained as solid as they were Friday, when the publishers asserted "a few" strikers had returned to work.

GERMANY GIVES IN TO FRANCE

Ruhr and the Rhineland, passive resistance must now be abandoned, he declared, as the nation would bleed to death in further attempts to hold out.

Dr. Stresemann said that as the government was unable to obtain money for the reparations, he was forced to accept the terms of the Versailles treaty, the unmodified return of those who had been deported and the restoration of German prerogatives within the Ruhr and Rhineland through advance negotiations with the occupying forces, continuation of passive resistance because of the nature of a signed capitulation, or formal admission of responsibility for its policy of passive resistance.

Whether the Chancellor definitely informed the participants in today's conference that the government would unconditionally call off passive resistance could not be established, and the first indication of the nature of the agreement was given in a cautiously worded communiqué in which the significance of the decision was not made clear.

FORD MAY LOSE MUSCLE SHOALS

Gorgas Power Plant is Sold by War Department

Project of Manufacturer is Now Believed Useless

Chance Open, However, for Him to Revise Bid

BY GRANT WILCOX
(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Henry Ford's Muscle Shoals project received a severe, if not fatal setback when Secretary of War Weeks announced that he sold the Gorgas power plant to the Alabama Power Company, for $3,472,487.25.

This plant was regarded by Mr. Ford as an indispensable part of the Muscle Shoals undertaking and it is doubtful whether he will be willing to go forward with his offer to take over the government's great water power works without it. The property was included in his original Muscle Shoals bid and whether he can be induced to revise the offer remains to be seen.

SALE ANNOUNCED

Secretary Weeks tonight authorized the following statement concerning the sale of the Gorgas plant:

"The Secretary of War announced today that the United States had sold to the Alabama Power Company the Gorgas power plant and the transmission line from the plant to Sheffield, Ala., for $3,472,487.25 cash, and the deed had been delivered."

"Under a contract with the Alabama Power Company the government acquired the right to use temporarily the land of that company upon which the government erected an addition to one of the company's steam plants and a transmission line from that plant to Sheffield at a total war-time cost of about $4,724,000. Under the terms of the contract the company sometimes also served notice on the government to either remove the property from the land of the company or to sell to the company at a fair, appraised value."

"The Secretary of War was advised by both the judge advocate general of the Army and the Attorney General that the former Secretary of War was authorized to contract for the temporary use of the lands of the company to replace government buildings and machinery thereon and to stipulate for their removal and the restoration of the lands to their former condition as provided in the contract. This advice was given notwithstanding opinions had been previously rendered holding certain other provisions of the contract invalid. To remove the property would mean the loss by the government of substantially all of the investment, hence the determination to sell."

FORD'S DELAY

Mr. Ford was informed of the complications and promised to take the question under advisement and to make a decision in the matter later. The government's contract with the Alabama Power Company expired on the 14th inst., and Secretary Weeks asked an extension to November 1. Thomas F. Martin, president of the company, replied that the company could not agree on such a long extension, but agreed to allow ten days more.

Secretary Weeks agreed to this and communicated it at once to Mr. Ford on the 14th inst. Mr. Ford, chief engineer for Mr. Ford, wired the following reply on the 21st inst.

"Replying to your telegram September 11, am surprised to learn that you were unable to extend to November 1, in accordance with agreement. On receipt of your letter of September 6, Mr. Ford assumed you would extend extension until November 1 as per request. Mr. Ford is now away and is not expected to return for a week or more."

When the commission adjourned Saturday, the number of cases pending since the 14th inst. was put under martial law on August 14, stood at 121.

Sheriff R. D. Sanford of Tulsa county and City Police Commissioner Kiskaddon of Tulsa both are members of the Ku Klux Klan, the military commission announced, "and we have positive evidence that their forces never have investigated a single case of these outrages which have been brought to our attention."

"A new case which came before the investigation today," the spokesman for the commission said, "is one in which the houses in Tulsa were burned by the masked Klansmen. We have a number of names in this case already in the record, but have not yet completed our investigation."

WEDDING FORCED

A wedding ceremony performed in the center of a field in Creek county adjoining Tulsa county, while the bridegroom was chained to a gas engine, with pistols leveled at his head, was another case heard today.

The principals in the wedding were Chester Cagle, 26 years old, of Tulsa, and a Tulsa woman who made her home with her father.

Rev. H. G. Cooke of Tulsa read the services using the book, "The Book of the Church," which he had brought with him. He testified after he had been rushed into Creek county by men he had never seen before. He defended his action by declaring that the ceremony was necessary to give the expected child of the woman a name.

Cagle was kidnapped from the streets of Tulsa two hours before the ceremony. Two men stopped a water wagon of which he is a driver and told him he was under arrest for speeding, he testified. They drew him into a closed car, tied a black bag over his head and drove off from the city. His captors told him, he declared, they belonged to the "invisible empire" and he denied he was guilty of the charge against him, and a few days after the impromptu ceremony his mother sued to have the action annulled. He told the military he had been warned not to take such action. The suit is pending.

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 24.—A warrant for the extradition of Gen. J. J. Jenkins, held at Fresno, to Norton, Va., was issued today at the office of Gov. Richardson. Jenkins is alleged to have shot and killed a policeman.

meeting he is upstaging the very foundation of government.

The legal battle lines are very sharply and strongly divided on this issue. Opinion flutters from the fronts like snowflakes. An effort is being made today to induce the Governor to go into court tomorrow with a restraining petition and thus make any demonstration on Wednesday impossible. The legislators, however, are anxious to have it all go into the courts.

"REBEL" STATEMENT

W. D. McBeck, leader of the "rebels," said today that we are a "Klan mob." We claim that we are neither a Klan mob nor an anti-Klan mob. We are elected by the people to perform certain duties. If we allow bombastic threats and intimidation to prevent us from performing these duties, then, indeed, we would be cowards. We will meet.

But to all this Gov. Walton says: "All right. We'll see." It was reported that the gunmen were going about the State threatening to ruin legislators in business or other ways if they came to the capital on this errand.

"That's a lie," said the Governor. "We don't need gunmen for those fellows."

The Governor turned out what he modestly referred to as a "little ridicule," today. Some of it follows:

"Considerable speculation exists as to where the Klan 'rump' assembly will meet under the command of Klegg McBeck. An appropriate place, in my judgment, would be, the right north of Rose Hill Graveyard. The paths leading to this place are well known to the 'knights of night.'"

MIDNIGHT OPENING

"If the ritual is strictly adhered to, the assembly should be called to order at about midnight and opened with prayer. The prayer should be offered by Grand Dragon Jewett. He should hold aloft over his head a good sound leather harness tug, about three and one-half feet long, three inches wide, and about one-fourth of an inch thick. One end should be wrapped by the head of the assembly, and the other end should be held by the Grand Dragon. He should hold this high over his head and look up into the heavens, pray fervently for the good of the order."

"The guardian angel of the Klan, the Grand Dragon, should be given wings and be presented to the assembly. The outside guard should then announce that the Klansmen are coming and the chief wizard should be heard rustling toward the throne."

"The grand dragon should then call for the order of the day as the same was agreed upon in Room Thirteen of the Hotel Hamilton, Tulsa, Oklahoma, on the 14th inst."

"The military court is in session and the grand dragon of the order is present. The preliminary hearing of whipping against N. C. Jewett, grand dragon of the order, will probably be continued for a week when it is called in Justice Court tomorrow morning. Jewett is threatening to sue for damages."

HEARINGS CONTINUE

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)
TULSA, Sept. 24.—Examinations continued before the examining board of the military commission today.

Persons whose dwellings were put to the torch were in the examination chambers of the military commission today. The full testimony would be made public when all parties who participated have been named in our official record.

CAPT. WATSON TAKES BLAME

Commander of Destroyer Squadron on Stand

Would Exonerate Officers Under His Orders

May Not Be Permitted to Assume Responsibility

bor, told of orders received from Rear-Admiral Sumner E. W. Kittelle, commander of destroyer squadrons, passed through a period of self-huffiliation in which he declared himself guilty of any blunders which may have been made as to the navigation of the Delphy and concluded with a striking commendation of his subordinate officers and enlisted men.

His recital followed a program which had been carefully arranged that the facts might be chronologically and clearly laid before the board in as brief a time as possible. It was decided by naval men who heard it to be the most masterly portrayal ever presented to their knowledge before any similar board. He stopped at the stroke of noon.

DENIES HAVING LIQUOR

The interest in his story remained undimmed throughout the afternoon. Here, under examination of his counsel, was brought out a direct denial that intoxicating liquor of any kind was in his ship or squadron. He denied that the entire officer or crew had used it either before or after the disaster.

When quotations from the coast pilot, the navigating bible of the Navy men, had been read to him, he admitted that he should have followed the advice given and taken soundings; he averred that if he had given an order for a certain formation, he could easily have taken soundings and that they would have shown him his true position and the crash would not have occurred.

To direct question from Admiral Pratt, he asserted that if he had given an emergency pennant signal, he might have been able to reach the catastrophe and had made out the signal for the Chaussey, he said, did not strike the rocks until eight minutes after the Delphy, at twenty-knot speed she could not have traveled more than a mile and a half in that time.

Again in answer to a question by the head of the board, he said that if he had been a commander of one of the destroyer divisions, he would have taken steps to assure the safety of the four ships under him; that he would have requested permission from the squadron commander to take these steps.

CONTRADICTS TESTIMONY

Previous testimony given by Lieutenant-Commander Hunter at the Point Arguello station, that the Delphy had not questioned bearings given shortly after 8 o'clock on the night of the crash and that no reciprocal bearings had been sent to her since the early afternoon, was flatly denied by Capt. Watson.

The message in question was supposed to have been sent after the 8 o'clock bearings had shown the squadron to the northward of the point. It read:

"We are to the southward; give us a reciprocal."

Hamilton, when on the witness stand, said that he never had received at the station and the reply was not given. Capt. Watson today asserted that the message was sent and the reply delivered, and offered to produce as witnesses radiomen from three other ships who, he says, listened in when the message was being handled.

The same questions from Admiral Pratt as to the potential responsibility of the division commanders and the commanding officers of the separate ships. And Capt. Watson replied:

"I admit that I am not prepared to take the responsibility for the operation of the divisions, especially in technical maneuvering and the safe handling of the ships."

"Since I have held command of the squadron, I have gone further in leaving the division commanders free under their own area than ever before has been done. From the day I took command, I held them responsible for the efficiency, administration and safe conduct of their divisions."

"I have no desire to assume their responsibility; I am simply anxious to assume all that is my own."

The morning session opened with Judge Advocate Commander Lewis E. Bratton presenting to the court scores of documents and charts which had been received from the wrecked destroyers. Then Capt. Watson assumed the stand.

He told of the orders of the beginning of the journey, of the fact that there was an official of the State Department, a Mr. Doomas, who is assistant language secretary of the United States Embassy in Japan, on board. This hitherto had not been made public.

Instead of running fast, the ships were trying to kill time so that they would not arrive in San Diego too early, he said.

There came a discussion on radio bearings. Of little incidents on the trip down the coast. He had discussed with Lieutenant-Commander Hunter all matters pertaining to the navigation of the ship and had personally checked the charts, he said.

EXPECTED NO MENACE

There seemed to be no reason to expect any menace from currents or otherwise, no reasons to believe that the destroyers were not making their twenty knots down the coast as set forth by their dead reckonings. He said that he gave the orders to change the course to the eastward personally, that they were relayed by the squadron, that these orders were given because he believed that the ships were in dangerous proximity to the rocks off San Miguel Island.

When the ship struck, visibility was fairly good. He issued the orders of "nine turn" and "keep clear to the westward" personally to the radio operators. Then, going on to the bridge, he ordered further warnings sent to the squadron. The ship's crew made determined efforts to carry out

FLAMES ON TANK SHIP KILL TWO

Pumproom on Associated Vessel Scene of Serious Explosion and Fire

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)
OAKLAND, Sept. 24.—Two pumpmen were killed and thousands of dollars damage was done in an explosion and fire today in the forward pump-room of the Associated Oil Company's tank steamer Alden Anderson at the Moore Drydock Company's plant on the Oakland estuary.

The dead are George A. McDonnell and a man named Hadley. Their blackened bodies were taken from the wrecked pump-room after the fire for two hours and a squad of firemen in gas masks had searched the ship.

The vessel, which had just left the drydock, was lying alongside that structure during the fire. It was an hour or more before the Sullivan could get close enough to the vessel to pump out the flood. The dense smoke also balked the efforts of land fire-fighters for a time. The smoke continued to pour from the vessel after the fire was extinguished. It was the second serious mishap in a week to the Associated Company's tank fleet, the William F. Herrin having been visited by a destructive fire off Martinez in the San Pablo Bay channel a few days ago.

Fighting in Larger Cities
Suppressed, but Isolated Districts Still Seething

BY LARRY RUE

SOFIA, Sept. 24.—While calm has been restored in the large centers, sporadic fighting in isolated districts is still giving trouble. Troops now are suppressing an uprising at Orsova, Brucovis and Perouchitza near Philippopolis, where a Communist republic was declared this morning.

About 250 Communists from Tchotchoven, Cavrilova, Karamir and Blincoz attacked Orsova, but were repulsed by regular troops. Altogether from 100 to 140 Communists have been arrested in Sofia, while prisoners in outlying districts total about the same.

The Communists are fighting in isolated districts, the same fantastic situation throughout the country being reported as the Serbian Foreign Office reports.

NIPPONESE WILL HAVE MAIL AGAIN

General Deliveries to Start
This Month; Thousands of Children Homeless

BY RODERICK MATHESON
(BY CABLE-EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
OSAKA, Sept. 24.—General mail deliveries will recommence at the end of the month. Meanwhile Tokyo and Yokohama mail is diverted to Kobe. Volunteers are distributing foreign mail, but it is heavily congested and delayed.

Letters leaving San Francisco on August 15 have not yet been delivered.

The authorities are commencing to plan the restoration of Yokohama's wharves, calling for $4,000,000. The depth of the harbor has been affected not more than one foot.

Leading importers are urging that the government form an official organization to handle the main imports, principally official iron and steel from America. They agree to sell Steel Corporation products at cost.

There are many children in Kobe, their names unknown and the parents not found, who were rescued by strangers from the burning confusion. There are 300,000 homeless in Yokohama; still living in the open. Building there is slow, but Tokyo is receiving much attention. Martial law probably will be extended at least another month.

About 1,000,000 spindles, one-fifth of the total in Japan, were destroyed or damaged and will be replaced for a year by the earthquake. About 800 looms were destroyed and 1,100 damaged. About 4000 bales of Indian raw cotton and 3000 bales of American raw cotton were destroyed.

The authorities, despite some public opposition, make it plain that they will not accept relief from Russia. Will not allow agents to land and will not allow soviet ships in the harbors.

Then she tenderly dressed it with a strip of linen well soaked in brandy, thinking the while, with a sudden rush of color to her face, that although she could suggest this remedy for her slight hurt, she gave no thought to his own serious injury. Finally she pounced upon his pipe and tobacco-box.

"Don't be alarmed," she laughed. "I have often filled my father's pipe for him. First, you put the tobacco in loosely, taking care not to use any that is too fine or powdered. Then you pack the remainder quite tightly. But I was nearly forgetting. I haven't blown through the pipe to see if it is clean."

She suited the action to the word, using much needless breath in the operation.

"Absolutely."

"You will like my father when you meet him. He is the very best man alive, I am sure."

"You two are great friends, then?"

But—but—you see, my father and I have always been together. I have neither brother nor sister, not even a cousin. My dear mother died from some horrid fever when I was quite a little girl. "I am."

"And you publicly thrashed Lord Ventnor as a result of a quarrel about a woman?"

"Your recollection is quite accurate."

"You was to blame?"

"The lady said that I was."

"Was it true?"

"Robert Anstruther, late captain of Bengal Cavalry, rose to his feet. He preferred to take his punishment standing.

"Miss Anstruther agreed with her, Miss Deane. And I am a pre-Ventnor any encouragement, possibly a little sympathy, for the man and that Lord Ventnor lied, when they attributed any dishonorable action to you, and I am glad to hear that you are well. I am quite sure he deserved it."

Not one word did this strange man utter in reply. He merely stretched violently, seized the stave lying at his feet, and went straight among the trees, keeping his head bowed, as if he might not wish to be noticed, not see the tears in his eyes.

For the girl, she began to hear her cookhouse maid, Mary, sing a song, and soon committed a song. Considering that she was compelled to constantly endure the

Your court-martial might have found her different had she had members been of her sex. As for Lord Ventnor, he is nothing to me, and I am sure my father will be permitted to pay his addresses to me, but my dear old dad left me no money and I have no money and I certainly never gave Lord Ventnor a cent."

"I am not at all surprised," she said, "that you should be so bitter against him and winter unless his plans go astray."

"Nothing would suit me better than to win the $40,000 Croftor Handicap and, if it is possible, you will see me as an owner at the Juana this winter," advised Dempsey in word he sends the Jockey Club.

MEXICO MINING GIVEN IMPETUS
Lead and Copper Production for Fiscal Year High
Old Properties Resume Work and New Ones Start
War's Check on Operations Creates Demand
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
MEXICO CITY, Sept. 24.—Mexico produced more than a fifth of the lead and copper of the world during the fiscal year 1922-23, according to statistics published by the Department of Mines of the Ministry of Industry, Commerce and Labor.
Lead production leads the nation's industrial metals, with a total for 1922 of 112,422,374 kilograms (a kilogram is two and a fifth pounds). Copper production during the same period was 25,377,788 kilograms.
States contributing to this production are enumerated as follows: Lead—Chihuahua, 45,510,579; Durango, 19,176,459; Zacatecas, 18,402,959; Coahuila, 5,765,246; San Luis Potosi, 2,349,099; Nuevo Leon, 1,026,125; Guerrero, 680,970; Queretaro, 280,069; Hidalgo, 184,250; Aguascalientes, 89,519; Sonora, 32,200; Guanajuato, 20,317; Tamaulipas, 680; Michoacan, 6205.
VALUE IN MILLIONS
These figures, reduced to percentages, show that Chihuahua produced during the year 27.75 per cent of the national output; Durango 16.19 per cent; Zacatecas, 16.23; Coahuila, 5.09; San Luis Potosi, 2.07; Nuevo Leon, .81; Guerrero, .68; Sonora, .03; Guanajuato, .02; Tamaulipas, .01; Michoacan, .01.
Production of copper was not hampered by States.
The total value of lead and copper for 1922 was $43,150,960, which represents 21.70 per cent of the total world production of both metals for the year 1922.
In 1923 the production of lead and copper for the first six-month period reached 50,137,652 kilos, following which and up to this time the mines of Mexico have produced 25,285,404 kilos, figures which, as compared with last year, show considerable increase in rate of production and indicate enlarged activity on the part of old producers, with many new properties being brought into production.
SMELTERS BUSY
In explaining this increase, the Mexico City newspapers say that many copper mines which remained inactive while the accumulated metal of the World War period was being consumed by the trades and arts of the world, now have resumed operations, the mines of industry throughout the country taking on new impetus within the last few months.

Lead producers, on the other hand, have been taking advantage of the favorable price of the commodity and active market demand and the lead stocks at all smelters have been going high and dry as a result and are working to capacity at this time.
Earthquakes in Persia Destroy Many Villages

Other towns along the Gulf of Oman felt the shocks. Persia in recent months has suffered much damage from earth shocks.

ARMS TRAFFIC PACT REFUSED
United States Will Not Act With League of Nations
St. Germain Treaty Rejected; Delegates Disappointed
Convention Too Intertwined, is Main Reason Given
[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]
GENEVA, Sept. 24.—"Negative" and "melancholic" were the words employed by delegates at the meeting of the League commission on disarmament today in referring to a recent communication from the United States government explaining the reasons why it cannot adhere to the convention for the control of traffic in arms.
This convention, known as the Treaty of St. Germain, has been ratified by many countries and the League asked the United States whether it could also subscribe. When the question was raised today Lord Robert Cecil remarked that the commission had received a letter from the United States government which, he was sorry to say, was negative in character.
CALLED MELANCHOLIC
Christian Lange of Norway characterized the American answer as melancholic. The United States, he said, had explained the reasons for nonadherence, but had given no indication of what it would like done on the question of traffic in arms. He hoped the facts about the traffic would be given the widest publicity. It ought to be made perfectly clear who was responsible for the delay in the restriction of the traffic, he said.
The commission adopted a resolution that the temporary mixed commission on armament prepare the draft of a new convention to replace that of St. Germain and that the United States be invited to appoint representatives to cooperate with the commission.
LANGE COMPLAINS
Mr. Lange's complaint of today was based on the fact that the League had asked the United States to make any suggestions likely to throw light on the best way of handling international traffic in arms, which had been engaging the attention of the League for several years as one of the world problems intimately connected with the movement for the limitation of armaments.
The United States answered that it was unable to adhere to the St. Germain convention for several reasons, among them, the objec-

JOB SHORTAGE LAID TO WORLD'S UNREST
BRITISH ASSOCIATION WARNED POPULATION CHECK IS NOT REMEDY
[BY CABLE-EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
LONDON, Sept. 24.—With more than 1,500,000 wage earners unemployed in England the people might be excused if they drew an inference that there were too many wage earners but such an inference, although natural, is unfounded, Sir William Beveridge told the economic section of the British Association at Liverpool today.
Great Britain's remedy is not to be found, he said, in doctrines limiting by birth control a population which otherwise tends to increase faster than food. Great Britain, according to Sir William, is suffering not from over-population but because the world outside has changed too rapidly. Of all the great countries, he said, Great Britain was the least self-sufficient but the most highly specialized and the most dependent on trade, peace, and world-wide co-operation.
"Man is still an unfinished article and far from perfect," Sir Oliver Lodge told the association. "Man is a comparatively recent comer to the planet and has infinite possibilities of development. When complete he will be worth all the sacrifice and pain which seem necessary to bring about completeness. Man is related on the bodily side to animals, but on his mental and spiritual side he has some incipient kinship with Deity."

TORRENTS STOP COTTON PICKING

Quarter to Half of Texas Crop Endangered

Farmers Also Fear Damage to Exposed Corn

Shortage of Harvest Hands Adds to Troubles

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) Sept. 24. Torrential rains which have fallen all over Texas during the last week, following from one to two weeks of daily showers, not alone have served to turn the unpaved roads into bogs and put flood waters into many of the larger streams and their tributaries, both creeks and "draws," or dry washed, out over the surrounding country, but have so materially delayed the picking of the cotton crop as to render doubtful the ultimate fate of from one-quarter to one-half the total cotton crop in many counties.

The cotton is not the only crop menaced, as in many districts where corn has not been shucked and housed farmers fear that the wet weather will cause the sprouting of the grain on the ear, thus bringing on its utter ruin as a feed for live stock or for any other useful purpose.

Farm specialty dealers in San Antonio and neighboring towns have not lost hope, contending that a week or two of dry, sunshiny weather will serve to repair much of the damage by returning all streams to normal level, drying up roads and making fields in the bottom lands, now a sea of mire, sufficiently dry so that cotton pickers and harvesters can enter them to gather the corn.

PRICES SOAR

A few districts only report cotton and corn unaffected by the excess moisture and, as a result, spot and future cotton prices are soaring to 30 cents or above.

From Nixon comes the report from farmers that the situation as affecting their cotton crop is grave. One farmer, quoted in a local newspaper, said he had a fifty-acre field in the bottoms in which not a picker had been, although he had a fairly good cotton crop. Early in the season he could obtain no pickers, and now grass and weeds have such a start that the wild growth between rows will make picking very difficult. Many other farmers or that vicinity enter complaints of similar nature. The gins at Nixon, which last year handled 3000 bales in a similar period, this year have ginned 1500 bales.

Alleton, Colorado county, reports the prolonged rainy season to be threatening fully half of the county's crop which still is in the fields. Many fields in the bottoms are white with stubble, but on account of the scarcity of pickers in that vicinity early in the year not a boll has been robbed of its contents.

BOLLS SPROUTING

In many fields the moisture is reported to be sprouting seed in the bolls, while the ground is too muddy to allow workers to enter the fields. There have been few complaints of cotton worms, though it is predicted that if the moisture continues long this pest will supplant the boll weevil in ravaging the crop. The price of picking, which started at 75 cents per 100 pounds, now has reached $1.50 per 100, and a few farmers are paying as high as $1.75.

Rockdale reports that, while rains have been heavy, little effect has been noticeable in the streams, though this was attributed to the distance from the head of the watershed, and belief was growing that flood waters would descend later to retard crop handling and oil-field work. Heavy rains were reported at Llano and Lampasas. Gathering of the cotton crop has been stopped effectually until the fields dry out, while pickers are scarce and are demanding from $1.50 to $1.75 a hundred. Many thousands of acres are reported untouched.

ROADS IMPASSABLE

Harvesting of crops of all kinds around El Campo have been retarded by rainfall, while roads around the town are reported impassable. Two weeks of almost daily showers were succeeded Monday by the heaviest rainfall of the season, making the crop outlook anything but flattering.

Great damage has been done to the crop around Kyle, where ten days of intermittent showers and heavier rainfall is reported. Roads are in bad condition and fields in muddy state, precluding workers entering them.

Bad roads and complicated crop conditions were reported from Thrall, where an inch and a half of rain fell Monday, following an inch and a half on Saturday night and a succession of lighter showers.

On September 16 a celebration by Mexican cotton pickers of the Prairie Lea vicinity complicated matters there, as the workers left the fields early in the week to gather for their annual picnic and refused to return to their fields until Tuesday, after taking Monday to return to their employers' farms. Rain descended in heavy volume upon the picnickers, but failed to dampen their enthusiasm for the glorious "Dias y seis de Septiembre." In the meantime, Caldwell county cotton fields became boggy and could not be entered.

PICKERS LUCKY

In most places pickers are in demand at from $1.50 to $1.75 per 100 pounds. As a picker can average from 200 to 300 pounds a day, according to ability, this is a good wage.

From Corpus Christi comes the report that the Nueces county crop this year amounted to between 90,000 and 100,000 bales, of which more than 45,000 bales had been ginned. However, in fields surrounding Driscoll and Bishop, Ernest Barkley, County Commissioner, estimated that several thousand bales were unpicked and, because of wet weather, unavailable for the present. With clear weather the ginner's hope to reach the 100,000-bale total before closing their plants for the season.

However, there are bright spots in the reports. Ginner's at Winters, near Ballinger, have ended their war, after sending the price up to $13 a ton, a fine thing for the farmer, but hard on the ginner and consumer. Seed has settled back to $4.3 a ton again. Pickers are in demand at $1.25 per 100, with a few farmers paying a higher rate. Cotton sold on the streets of Ballinger at $21.50 and seed at $44 a ton Wednesday.

5 Days From Today

Your opportunity to buy an irrigated vineyard of five acres or more on the Fontana Estate on easy terms over five years at only $500 per acre will end. Between now and Sunday night you can purchase this choice income acreage property at the gates of Los Angeles with a cash payment down of only $125 per acre. Next Monday the price goes up to $550 per acre with a cash payment down of $175 per acre.

Hundreds of people during the past year have visited Fontana, have inspected this great diversified farming property and have seen at once that an acreage unit here at the low price and easy terms on which we offered it forms one of the really outstanding land bargains today in Southern California. They are now Fontana land owners.

Of the many hundreds who have bought tracts of this carefully-planted, highly-cultivated and well-irrigated land, a large percentage have built attractive homes on their vineyards or on one-acre lots adjoining the townsite that we have sold them, or are building such homes, with poultry plants or other improvements. About 2000 people now populate the 24 square miles that comprise the Fontana Estate.

The Fontana Estate, one of the greatest diversified colonization projects ever attempted in the United States, is today practically a finished product with its 600 miles of beautiful shade trees, fine boulevards and roads, its unexcelled irrigation and domestic water system, its 5000 acres of orange and grapefruit groves, 1000 acres of deciduous fruit orchards, 5000 acres of choice vineyard lands, its great tree nurseries and experimental farm, its famous poultry farm and its enormous live-stock farm.

Through 17 years of careful planning and the expenditure of $6,000,000, the Fontana Farms Company has made it possible for the small investor to establish a permanent, profitable home amid delightful surroundings in Southern California without the hardships and drudgery of individual pioneering.

Fontana is a community of attractive California homes among the orange trees and vineyards, and in the center of the estate is being developed one of the most beautiful little towns in the whole Southland, under the expert supervision of building and landscape architects of note. Through the use of cold type we cannot make you visualize the wonderful opportunity that Fontana offers for those seeking country homes near Los Angeles for a small investment on easy terms, and it is not our policy to indulge in flamboyant or exaggerated statements in our publicity. You must see yourself to understand and to appreciate Fontana.

And so we ask you to let us take you for a two hours' motor trip over paved boulevards to the Fontana Estate, where you can observe and judge for yourself. Fontana lies in the beautiful uplands that slope gently from the Sierra Madre Mountains, just 50 miles east of Los Angeles.

Remember that your immediate investment—for the next five days only—will be only $125 per acre; then $25 per acre each year for three years, payable semi-annually; $125 per acre the 4th year; $175 per acre the 5th year. We take complete cultural care of your vineyard for three years from the date of planting last spring.

EDITORS MEET IN ANNUAL SESSION

Association of Southern California Editors

Addresses on Newspaper Management Feature

Illness of Governor, Death of Harding Deplored

POMONA, Sept. 24.—More than 150 members of the Southern California Association of Editors met today in annual session at Pomona College today, elected officers, listened to addresses on newspaper management, and adopted resolutions.

J. R. Gabbert, editor of the Riverside Enterprise, was the unanimous choice of the editors for president of the Southern California Association of Editors. He was elected to a three-year term. He succeeds Paul Moore of the Redlands Facts.

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED
Other officers elected were: F. M. Moffat, Van Nuys News, first vice-president; F. H. Hostett, Rialto Record, second vice-president; O. M. Cannon, Puenia Journal, third vice-president; R. O. Wickizer, South Pasadena Record; M. D. Witter, Brawley News; James K. Kruger, Orange Courier; E. H. Marriott, Alhambra Advocate; J. L. Matthews, Covina Argus; C. H. Turner, Redondo Reflex; and A. V. Douglas, La Habra Star, books of directors.

Speaker Frank P. Merriam of the California Assembly was present to express the regrets of Gov. Richardson, who was unable to attend because of a heavy cold. Mr. Merriam told the editors that California has never had a Governor more devoted to the welfare of the people and more interested in the present disposition of Gov. Richardson is due to the fact that the State's chief executive has insisted upon giving personal attention not only to the affairs of his own office, but to the State highway situation and other important activities customarily known to the Governor's office only by official reports.

MANY SPEAKERS
Speakers on the day's program included: Harry J. Hottel, Hollywood Citizen; Donald S. Main, Tulare Register; Timothy Brown, Puenia Journal; Lyman M. King, Redlands Facts, who delivered a eulogy of the late President Harding; Miss Belle McCord Roberts, Long Beach Telegram; John Steven McGroarty, author of the Mission Play; Alma Whitaker, Los Angeles Times; Dr. James E. Blaisdell, president of Pomona College; R. P. Clarke, Riverside Press; Miss Margaret Dickson, Pomona College; Stuart L. Wolfe, Orange News; Horridge, Sierra Madre News; Harvey Johnson, Banning Record; and John E. King, Brawley News.

Mr. McGroarty told the editors that inasmuch as they had succeeded in electing a Governor, he could see no reason why they could not elect him, as he would promise, being a Democrat, to resign after enjoying the honor and wearing a "high hat" for a few days, thus permitting the promotion of the Lieutenant-Governor who would, of course, be a Republican.

Alma Whitaker, whose candid remarks somewhat belied her protestations, assured the editors that she has been in awe of newspaper editors all of her life and asserted that she can see nothing unusual in the election of editors to the Presidency, governorship and other high offices.

WOMAN APPLAUNDED
Miss Robert publisher of the Long Beach Telegram, who, last December, became the first woman publisher of a daily newspaper, was applauded when she told her fellow-editors that the Telegram has grown and prospered under her management and that one of the reasons for her own election and determination was the more or less veiled insinuation that "a woman couldn't do it."

A tribute to the late Warren G. Harding as citizen, editor and President was paid by former State Senator King of Redlands, who prefaced his address with the comment that "it is peculiarly appropriate that a gathering of country newspaper men should deplore the death of their distinguished colleague." The outstanding achievement of President Harding's administration, the next constructive step toward peace was the proposal for intervention by the nation of the World Court. The President never suggested that it would do away with all war; never intimated that it would function as a preventive of hostilities when some firebrand should assassinate a ruler at a critical moment. He urged the World Court as a step which might give opportunity for discussion which would discourage war. In his own words he felt it "would make war less probable."

In a tribute to Harding the man and President, Mr. King said: "The simplicity of Mr. Harding's life and his baldness endeared him to all who knew him. There was a homeliness and a homeliness about him that at once dispelled all formality. The outstanding traits of his character were his gentleness, his kindness, his consideration for others, his strong adherence to any principle accepted by him as right, note especially his pronouncement in favor of enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment, his equally strong affection for his friends and his desire to be of some actual usefulness to his country while he should serve it."

CROSSING TAKES NEW TOLL

Woman May Die, Husband and Child Hurt When Auto Fails to Beat Train Near Anaheim

ANAHEIM, Sept. 24.—North Station crossing, commonly known as "Death Corner," was the scene of another near-fatal accident this morning when Louis Barando, his wife and child, of 1745 East Seventh street, Los Angeles, were seriously injured as the automobile in which they were riding was struck by Santa Fe passenger train No. 71, bound from Los Angeles to San Diego.

The man and boy escaped with bruises and lacerations about the body and face but Mrs. Barando suffered severe cuts about her head and neck and was unable to move. Physicians say, may cause her death.

Mr. Barando is employed by the California Walnut Growers' Association in Los Angeles and was en route to Anaheim on business when the accident occurred. He was traveling in the same direction as the train on the highway which parallels the track for about a mile and had a clear view of the approaching train.

Train No. 71 does not stop at North Station and was traveling, according to the Santa Fe officials, at about 15 miles an hour at the intersection of the highway, which makes a sharp turn across the railroad tracks just south of the station.

Trainmen reported that the whistle had been blown when the train was about half a mile from the crossing and that the bell was ringing as the train approached. Barando drove directly in front of the train and the automobile was carried down the tracks in front of the engine before the engineer could stop the train.

The injured were taken to the Fullerton Hospital.

A free barbecue was held at the Fullerton Hospital for the injured. A free barbecue was held at the Fullerton Hospital for the injured. A free barbecue was held at the Fullerton Hospital for the injured.

The men who are coming to Bakersfield represent oil-producing agencies in every part of the United States and in foreign countries. They have just attended a convention of their association in Los Angeles, where more than 400 gathered to discuss phases of the California oil industry, including present development and future production.

In discussing the trip to Kern county, Mr. Lundauer said an entirely new phase of oil production will be noticed here as the local fields are said by experts to vary in nature from those of Southern California.

A great many new leases will no doubt result from the trip. Mr. Lundauer said the oil-producing world is looking toward Kern county for future permanent development of the industry.

BANKERS MEET
OVER PROBLEMSAnnual Convention of A.B.A. in Atlantic CityLos Angeles Man is on the Program TodayReserve Bank and National Issues Discussed

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 24.—Unwarranted attacks on the Federal Reserve system, which threaten in time to deprive the nation of what is considered its chief bul-work of strength in its financial system, will be one of the chief subjects of consideration at the annual convention of the American

Bankers' Association in Atlantic

City starting yesterday and continuing until Friday.

Other important subjects are:

"The Rising Tide of Radicalism,"

"Agitation Against the Gold Standard and for Unsound Money" and

"The Alarming Unsoundness of the Economic Foundation of Agriculture."

Joseph H. Puelicher, president, in issuing the call for the convention and approving the program, says the bankers must consider the problems of the nation points out that the convention of a year ago dealt principally with the great problems confronting

European nations, and this year's sessions embracing domestic problems—namely the serious construction of every banker in the nation.

There will be three general sessions, and the divisional sessions will have six meetings. The general sessions will open Tuesday and continue through Thursday, while the divisional sessions will be held on four days, beginning September 24.

One of the principal features of the third general session will be a forum on "The Federal Reserve System—Its Merits and Defects."

This discussion is designed to bring out all points of view and to be constructive.

Subjects embracing every phase of banking and business and national problems will be covered in the set addresses, among the speakers being W. R. Morhouse, vice-president of the Security

Trust and Savings Bank, Los Angeles, who is scheduled to address the savings bank division this afternoon on "Newspaper Advertising."

Prosperity in larger cities, but economic depression in the rural districts is being emphasized. It is pointed out that the highest wages in history are being paid in the cities, where much construction work is under way. There is a scarcity of skilled labor and very little unemployment. Workers are depositing their earnings in banks and more money is in circulation now than at any time since the war, the city bankers say.

Poor crops, resultant unemployment and low prices for their products has brought depression to the farming sections, particularly the Southwest, those from the country point out.

The European situation and the "political rampage" are blamed for conditions in the agricultural sections. Few of the bankers here will have a remedial effect.

There is, however, a feeling of optimism in these sections, hardened by the wave of depression. The fall yield of crops has encouraged the farmers and banks are loaning money on the belief that better prices will be gotten for the output, thus stabilizing conditions.

J. H. Puelicher, president of the Marshall and Isley Bank, Milwaukee, Wis., says: "The two-sided view given of the country as a whole by the greater degree of optimism expressed by the city bankers than by the country bankers is significant and is an accurate reflection of the more rapid improvement that has occurred in agriculture. Despite this unevenness, general is good. We may hope that it will continue to improve if anti-trust controls and control and the believing that the answer for their problems is to be found in special legislation instead of in the normal working out of economic processes."

OIL NEWS

BY HOWARD C. REGLEY

The Signal Hill field today is richer by three new producing wells which have added about 6000 barrels flush production to the total yield of the field. The wells were brought in late last night.

The Dabney No. 17, located on Spring street west of California avenue, started flow at the rate of 2500 barrels of 22.5 gravity oil through the four-inch casing. The well was completed at 5403 feet after having been deepened from a level that produced a small quantity of oil.

The Big Three Oil company's No. 1 well on Elm avenue, north of Frankfort street, started a flow at a rate estimated at 5000 to 6000 barrels. The yield shows considerable heavy mud and the well is beamed down to a three-eighths bean. The well was completed at a depth of 4050 feet, and is said to be free from water.

Gray No. 1, a Petroleum Mid-way well, was brought in on Cherry avenue with a flow which gauged 500 barrels. The well was completed at a depth of 4300 feet on a location just north of Arabelle street.

Another well on city-owned lands was spudded in on Sunday by the Jergins Trust when drilling was started on City Jergins No. 2, on California avenue. Record time was made during the first twenty-four hours, the bit going down 405 feet in that time.

Well's Flow Increases

The flow of the Callender No. 1 well of the Union Oil Company, which is the discovery well of the Compton field, has steadily increased since it was put on production ten days ago, according to officials of the company.

The initial flush flow of the well was 800 barrels per day and it is now delivering 1353 barrels a day. The gas pressure is 250 pounds on the pole beam and 500 pounds on the casing.

M & H Settling Casing

The M. & H. Company is now settling an oil string in its No. 1 well in the western extension of the Santa Fe Springs field, according to officials of the company. They report that they are now in an oil sand and have excellent showings at a depth of 4662 feet.

LXI. Higher Bills

THE LONGER nights of the fall and winter are certain to result in higher bills for electric lighting. Just how much longer each day it is necessary to depend upon artificial illumination is shown by the chart below.

Average Daily Hours of Darkness for Each Month of the Year.

The shaded bars show the average hours requiring artificial light after deducting 8 hours for sleep, which are represented by the black bars.

It will thus be seen, for example, that the electric lights must be used nearly twice as long each day in October as in July.

FIRST SUBWAY WORK IN SIGHT

Council Expected to Order Report on Tunnel

Pacific Electric Prepared to Swing Shovels

Park - Glendale Boulevard Unit Leads Off

The City Council is expected to take action toward an immediate start on a Los Angeles subway system by authorizing the appointment of a committee of engineers to report within two weeks on final plans for the first unit of the underground system, which will be the Pacific Electric's rapid transit tunnel from Pershing Square to First street and Glendale Boulevard.

On this committee will be City Engineer Griffin, Chief Engineer of the Board of Public Utilities, Chief Engineer Richard Sackel of the Traffic Commission and an engineer from the Pacific Electric.

The railway company has obtained most of its right of way for the Hollywood tunnel, and is only awaiting an agreement with the city as to the portions of the space under Pershing Square to be used for a subway station before starting construction work.

Members of the Board of Utilities and of the City Council and officers of the railway company are anxious for quick action in starting work on the first unit, but the city officials and engineers are determined that it will be so planned and built that it will fit in as a part of a comprehensive downtown subway system which will ultimately take off of the street all street cars.

WOES AIRED BY ACTRESS IN DIVORCE

Alice Owen Says Husband is Temperamental; Seeks Alimony, Boy's Custody

The family squalls and storms which finally threw the marital bark of Alice Owen, vaudeville actress, known on the stage as Alice Bigelow, and Harry Orville Owen, on the rocks of the divorce court were described yesterday in Judge Summerfield's division of Superior Court by both the actress and her husband.

Mrs. Owen was in court to press temporary alimony proceedings against her husband, who is a Chicago accountant.

In court, husband and wife joined verbal combat. Mrs. Owen declared that her husband had a monopoly on temper during their life together. He frequently threatened suicide to worry her, she said. He also often called her names and one occasion attempted to drive an automobile in which they were riding into a lake.

The husband came back with the statement that his wife was not a fit guardian of their child, that she was often intoxicated and a habitue of questionable resorts and roadhouses. Mrs. Owen had stated previously that she desired the temporary alimony for their 6-year-old boy.

After listening to conflicting charges and counter-charges, Judge Summerfield continued the case for a week to give Owen an opportunity to file a demurrer to his wife's petition for temporary alimony.

sen and the ship's officers and crew in rescue work.

The West Prospect was the first ship to reach Yokohama after the earthquake sent Japan's finest city crumbling and the last permitted to send small boats ashore. She was scheduled to reach Yokohama from Shanghai at noon of the 1st inst., the moment at which the disaster occurred, but was delayed ten hours by a storm in the China Sea, according to Purser George H. Edwards.

RECEIVE S.O.S. CALL

"The sea was calm with no signs of heavy weather on the afternoon of the quake," said Mr. Edwards. "At 4 p.m., however, we received an S.O.S. call from the American steamer Selma City, saying that she had eighty-nine passengers aboard from the City of Yokohama and that she had stove a great hole in her starboard bow and was sinking fast by the head.

We thought that the City of Yokohama was the name of a ship in distress, but two hours later, as darkness came on, we could see a growing glare in the sky; it was the flames of Tokyo and Yokohama.

"At 9 p.m. the entire panorama of flame and destruction was spread out before us with an increasing wall of flame as a background, the most marvelous sight I have ever witnessed.

"We dropped anchor at 11 p.m. At daylight the captain, Mr. Smith, Mr. Driggs, Mr. Muller and Judge Harvey, the ship's officers, and myself went ashore to do what we could in the rescue measures. We brought nineteen white refugees on the ship that night.

W. A. Smith, Manila representative for Cooper & Co., was a passenger on the West Prospect and presented a graphic account of the wrecked city. "Every light in Yokohama was out and we walked for hours without being able to discover the location of a single street," said Mr. Smith. "At midnight, shortly after we dropped anchor, there were a series of shocks which leveled what few buildings had escaped the first temblors."

Heading the list of refugees taken to Kobe were the family of Maurice Russell, Mr. Russell, one of the oldest foreign residents in Japan, was killed in the sight of his family while attempting to save household effects from his ruined home on the outskirts of Yokohama.

RESCUE SHIP BOARD MAN

A. W. Anderson, Yokohama head of the United States Shipping Board, was another refugee aboard the ship. Mr. Anderson was trapped in eight hours of his wrecked office on the Bund at Yokohama for five hours.

The complete list of refugees taken to Kobe by West Prospect, all of whom embarked at Manila, and will leave the ship at Los Angeles, follows: Mrs. Maurice Russell, widow of Maurice Russell; Miss Marian Russell, Miss Kate Russell, Mr. Alfred Russell, all of Yokohama; Allen Nitkov, wife and son of Yokohama; John Rudolph of Tokyo; Merriman Frank Julian, Yokohama, manager of Standard Oil Company; Charles Palmer, oriental manager for the exporting firm of A. McDonald & Co., New York; A. W. Anderson, Yokohama, manager for the United States Shipping Board, and Lynch.

The complete list of passengers aboard the West Prospect, all of whom embarked at Manila, and will leave the ship at Los Angeles, follows: Mrs. Maurice Russell, Mrs. C. Muller, Javier Muller, Elia Muller, August Muller, Jose Muller, Carmen Muller, Mercedes Muller, Cecilia Muller of this city; Judge G. R. Harvey, presiding justice of the court of the First instance of the Philippines; and Mrs. Harvey; Edwin L. Driggs, superintendent of the United States Bureau of Public Works of the Philippines; Mrs. Driggs; Jack Driggs and Ogden Driggs, all of Manila; W. A. Smith, oriental manager for Cooper & Co., Chicago, his wife and two children.

The West Prospect, a steamer of 15,000 tons, left Kobe for Los Angeles on the 5th inst. She is in command of Capt. J. A. Jacobson, and is owned by the United States Shipping Board. She will pass

KEYS PROVE KEY IN OPIUM HUNT

Police Narcotic Squad Tries Door After Door Until Cache is Found

For the last forty-eight hours, members of the police narcotic squad have been in Chinatown, sifting two keys in their possession to one door after another. Last night their labors were rewarded. At 2:15 1/2 Marchesant street they found the door for which the keys had been made. Behind the door they reported they found opium valued at $2000.

The keys, duplicates, came into possession of the squad Saturday, when they arrested two aged Chinese, Hom Bing, 76 years of age, and Wang Foo, 75. Searching the two, they found a small quantity of powdered opium—and on each man they found one of the keys.

Although Chinatown must have been fully informed of the search, apparently there was no third key, because the officers say they found the opium cache intact.

ARGONNE TROOPS TO HAVE BIG REUNION

Marking the anniversary of the "jump-off" in the Argonne offensive, in which they played an active and historic part, members of the Ninety-first Division will get together at Los Angeles Athletic club tomorrow night in their annual gathering. A big banquet will be the feature of the evening, backed up with a program of boxing and stage acts of unusual merit.

According to Capt. Walter Brinkop, who has been active in arranging the affair, members of the division from all over Southern California will make the best of the occasion by meeting with their former buddies and fighting the war over again. The reunion is an annual affair and means much to those who participated in the strenuous activity of the Argonne.

Clifford Hughes, 414 A. C. Bartlett Building, is in charge of the reservations for the big reunion, and reports a brisk demand for tickets, both for the dinner and the program that will precede and follow it. The number to be accommodated is limited, and it is possible some of the late comers will be forced to sit on the side lines.

Some stocks and bonds he had in his possession were found torn up near the scene of the tragedy, the deputy stated. Knight said to have been lured to the spot where he was slain.

DEATH ATTEMPT RENEWS LOVE

Girl Bride and Husband Reconciled

THE specter of death yesterday took a hand in the domestic difficulties between R. S. Hurst, a musician, and his 18-year-old wife, Pattie, a dancer, and effected a reconciliation.

Yesterday morning the young bride drove up to the Receiving Hospital in a taxicab and told physicians she had poisoned her husband. She was placed on the operating table and her husband, from whom she had been separated, was summoned.

There, while the physicians were draining the poison from her stomach, the young wife and her husband discovered anew that they loved each other. They drove away from the hospital together. Mrs. Hurst apparently entirely recovered from the effects of the poison.

She swallowed four bichloride of mercury tablets in her room at 334 South Westlake avenue, where she had resided since the separation from her husband. The Sheriff's office is now charged that McBride, who was an auto mechanic in Phoenix in 1921, was the one who held the weapon with which Knight was killed, though all are charged with murder. The Sheriff asserts that among the new evidence to be introduced are human bones, presumed to be those of Knight, which have been dug up near Buckeye.

LURED TO DEATH

Some stocks and bonds he had in his possession were found torn up near the scene of the tragedy, the deputy stated. Knight said to have been lured to the spot where he was slain.

BOXING BARRED AT UNIVERSITY

sion and the extension division, which will open next week.

Today at 11 a.m. the new student body will assemble at Board Auditorium and Dr. R. B. Von Kleinsmid, president of the university, will give an address on "The Obligation of Scholarship."

The board of trustees will be special guests and Prof. Karl T. Waugh, new dean of the college of liberal arts, will be introduced. Dr. Waugh, recently dean of Brera College, Kentucky, who obtained his Ph.D. degree at Harvard and who was a major in the personnel division of the United States government during the war, is one of the most noted expert vocational psychologists in America.

At the assembly today new members of the faculty will be introduced to students. The new instructors are:

Philip A. Biegler, professor of mechanical and electric engineering; Arthur E. Connell, instructor in Spanish; Clarence M. Case, professor of sociology; Leda C. Catlin, instructor in botany; Elmer D. Fagan, assistant professor of economics; Frances S. Lucas, instructor in English and literature; Sumner N. Spaulding, assistant professor of architecture; Max Von Lewin Swarthout, head of the piano department; Glen E. Turner, secretary Y.M.C.A.; Roland A. Vandergrift, instructor in history; Agnes L. McLeod, instructor in the arts and Rosalie Keen, physical education.

Next Thursday at noon the Alumni Association, of which E. L. Doherty, Jr., is president, will give a luncheon at the Elks in honor of Coach E. C. Henderson, and at 1:30 p.m. Thursday, the annual pushball contest between Freshmen and Sophomores will be conducted at Board Field under supervision of Harry Silke, president of the Student Body Association.

An outstanding feature of university work this year will be the Students Co-operative Store, just opposite the main building, with Dean Fisk as general manager. The students will patronize this store almost exclusively, buying text-books, stationery, sports, tires and other automobile accessories. It is predicted that the store will handle $500,000 worth of business annually.

Funds obtained for the university through the production of "The Wayfarer" will be applied toward the equipment and general advancement of the music and arts colleges, according to college officials.

MEXICAN TRADE PROSPECT TOLD

directly by rail with the oldest city on the American continent and the two most important centers of population in Mexico, Guadalajara and Mexico City.

The West Coast of Mexico is already tributary to Los Angeles and the completion of this railway line puts in service for the entire republic the many-fold activities of Los Angeles, socially, economically and educationally. What is of equal importance, it allows us to draw the commodities we need for manufacturing in return for the articles we export, for all foreign trade must be an exchange.

HARD TO BELIEVE
Possibly the world is growing better every day, but you can't prove it by the music that is being turned out.

HAS A STING
The most exciting drink in Chicago just now is a hair tonic that carries 93 per cent of alcohol. It has a bite like a steamboat and tastes like barbed wire.

IRELAND FOREVER
Although just initiated into the League of Nations the Irish delegates are demanding representation on the International Commission and other tributaries of the League. Whenever the League assemblies Ireland may be depended upon to stage a little curtain-raiser.

THE DIFFERENCE
Henry Ford says that he will not run for anything or against anything, but he builds a machine that behaves differently. It will run on the slightest provocation and doesn't give a whoop what it runs against. Henry says he doesn't know whether he is a Democrat or a Republican. There is no difference between the parties anyhow. The machine he creates is a middle-of-the-road.

TRAIL OF REPUTATION
Some of the union newspapers in New York have been given a taste of the worthlessness of union understandings. A union agreement is as palpable as a rope of sand. There does not seem to be a labor organization in America that is not dominated by the selfish interests of those who happen to be in command at the time. Apparently no firm or industry making agreements with a trade union can expect to have them fulfilled unless they are to the personal advantage of the leaders of such union.

STEP ON THE GAS
Thirty-five States have adopted a gasoline sales tax somewhat akin to the measure which goes into effect in this State September 30. In Florida, Idaho, Oregon and South Carolina the tax is 3 cents a gallon. In fifteen of the States the levy is but 1 cent. According to preliminary estimates the tax of 2 cents a gallon in California will yield a revenue of approximately $7,300,000 a year. We are using 1,000,000 gallons of gasoline a day. The revenue here will be twice as much as from any other State in the Union. This is because New York, Illinois and Ohio do not levy a gasoline tax and the rate in Pennsylvania is but 1 cent. California uses more gasoline in a week than Nevada does in a year. It uses more in a month than Arkansas does in a year. When it comes to gasoline California is the greatest consumer in the Union. But this is fit and proper for, by the same token, the State is also the greatest producer under the Stars and Stripes.

PLUTOCRATIC PLASTERERS
Fond mothers who are busily engaged in planning the baby's future course in life are urged to turn their attention toward the gentle art of plastering, especially if they chance to reside in the vicinity of Chicago. For piteous are the plaints that are going up from the Windy City from professors and bank presidents who turn green with envy as the kingly plasterer hanks by to work in his car.

As a starter, the modern plutocrat gets $15 a day for his eight hours of toil. But his income doesn't stop there. Men of this class are now so scarce that the contractors pay a flat bonus of $10, in advance, to every plasterer. Through the workings of an inexorable economic law, whenever the followers of any trade become particularly scarce, they tend to become haughty and overbearing. Rumor has it that a new-made movie queen looks like a humble supplicant compared to the peer of the plasterer of high degree, as he floats past the mental throng in his limousine.

Banks and brokerage concerns complain that their workers are becoming almost Bolshevikish whenever a new building begins to be constructed near them. As the bookkeeper surreptitiously trims a thread from the cuff of his shirt, his glance falls on the plutocrat parking his car outside, and he is apt to steal some of the firm's money to go to a plastering school. Contractors state that it takes the men about an hour to park their cars in the morning and settle down to work. Frequently the line extends for two blocks from the building under course of construction, and the automobiles are not all of a certain well-known make of tin. The worker then changes his clothing, chats with his fellows leisurely, and takes frequent time off to quaff a soda or a near-beer. The bosses are helpless, as they dare not say a word for fear of losing the men's services to some rival contractor.

So don't raise your son to be a general, or President, or great musician. Teach him something that sounds less imposing, but is more remunerative, and he will win the beautiful lady just the same. The man with the fat purse always does.

ANOTHER BALKAN NUMBER

Bulgaria has rushed for an instant to the front of the world's stage with a new insurrection. According to the dispatches it is a kind of battle royal. The agrarians are marching against the Bulgarian Fascists, and the Communists are attacking both. King Boris is with the Fascists, who are nominally in charge of the government; but, if either of the other parties should capture the works, he will place himself at their head.

In a world where so much confusion prevails, a diversion on the part of the Bulgarians will strike the average citizen as the injection of a farce rather than as a tragedy; but those who have studied the European situation more closely know that this latest insurrection is a symptom of what might prove a dangerous malady to Europe.

The Fascist movement that resulted in the death of former Prime Minister Stambouliak and the overthrow of his agrarian government turned out to be a pro-German affair. The leaders of the Fascist took an active part on the side of the Central Powers during the World War. The agrarian government was friendly to the Allies, especially to France. During the last two months the Bulgarian government has been pronounced in opposition to the French occupation of the Ruhr; and the press has intimated that the Bulgarians might join with their former allies in driving the French back across the Rhine.

There have been reports of a secret bond which would bring Bulgaria, Hungary and Austria to the aid of the Germans. The French government has been aware of this and has been busily engaged in forming a counter bond, to be composed of Poland, Czechoslovakia, Rumania and Jugoslavia. Reciprocal jealousies among these four powers have prevented any active co-operation.

Bulgaria is an agricultural country. Three-fourths of the population are peasants. The military party now in power is lacking in general support. It draws its chief strength from the Nationalist party, and that is openly pro-German. The latest reports from Sofia before the revolt broke were to the effect that the Socialist party had demanded of the King that he should reduce the influence of the Nationalists in the Cabinet, and that he had refused.

Recent revolutions in Sofia three considerable light upon the kind of government that prevails in the Balkans. Minister of Justice Smiloff made public on August 22 a report, found in the archives of the Stambouliak government, made by former Minister of Justice Radoloff. It related to the withdrawal by the government of convicts from the prisons, who were promised their liberty on condition that they would assassinate certain leaders of the opposition.

According to Radoloff, this had been going on for some time, and it was becoming a prison scandal. He asserted that the government police would withdraw two or three dangerous criminals and charge them with a secret assassination. Then, in order that the facts should not be known to the public, a second triumvirate would be withdrawn from the prisons, and the assassinations would follow.

Radoloff's report gave the number of criminals serving sentence who had been withdrawn for high purposes of state at 160. His complaint seemed not to be directed at the iniquity of such a proceeding, but at the fact that the secret purpose of the withdrawal had become known in the prison, and that the inmates protested against such releases, knowing their own assassination would follow.

As might be imagined, the publication of the report awakened indignation in certain circles in Bulgaria; but that indignation seems to have been directed at the Minister of Justice for giving to the public the inner secrets of the government. According to Monday's dispatches, Smiloff had been dismissed from the Cabinet and from his place as the head of the Department of Justice by King Boris.

In a country where assassination is a part of the policy of the government, morality and justice are hardly to be expected; and revolts will be the rule, rather than the exception. It is plain that, in the Balkans at least, Parliamentary government is only a name. The rock of progress has rolled back to the bottom of the hill. Morally and politically, the people are about where they were 300 years ago. Perhaps, morally, they are worse.

TO LABOR

"To Labor: Whose efficiency and whole-hearted co-operation have made possible the remarkable strides in building and industrial development in Los Angeles which have focused upon this city the eyes of the entire country. 'Security Trust and Savings Bank.'"

This is the wording of a complimentary advertisement which appears in the Official Year Book of Organized Labor, recently published in this city.

The Times yields to none in the sincerity of its tribute to labor as embodied in the firm and sturdy American workman whose hands, unshackled by unionism, laid the foundations and reared the towers of the modern metropolis of Los Angeles, an enduring monument to industrial liberty.

But it has been free labor, not "organized labor" of the Gompers-McNamara stripe of misleadership, that has made possible the remarkable strides in building and industrial development of this city.

As is well known to every man and woman in Los Angeles, the prosperity of this city has been due to its freedom from union-labor domination. Its prosperity has been due to the fact that independent workmen have found here a haven of refuge from the union-labor tyrannies of cities like Chicago; they found in this city a condition which offered rewards for real effort; where every man could deliver his best work and most vigorous and intelligent effort, unhampered by the artificial and tyrannical rules of the union.

As a result of this free field of effort, the finest grade of workmen from the whole world have flocked here, finding opportunity to do their best work and to sell it at a fair price and under their own self-imposed conditions.

This condition, advantageous to the workman, has been reflected in the advantage to the employer.

With the skilled workmen free to deliver their best and their highest effort, the wages have been among the highest, but the labor costs lower than in other less favored and less free communities.

Los Angeles has made strides because the workmen have been left free to deliver the goods—and delivered them to the honor and prosperity of the community.

To the older institutions of Los Angeles these facts are as familiar as those of their own businesses. There is not one of them but owes its prosperity to the fight that was made and won here for the principle of industrial liberty. Any one of them, even by inference, pays tribute to the element which has consistently fought against that principle is guilty of disloyalty to Los Angeles and of bad citizenship.

BEHIND THE TIMES

During the last municipal campaign, Gale had a cartoon in The Times showing the Board of Public Service Commissioners in the role of a highwayman pointing a mean-looking revolver at the head of poor Mr. Los Angeles Taxpayer and demanding $35,000,000, saying that no questions were to be asked as to how the money was to be spent. Mr. Taxpayer looked pretty mild and meek in Gale's cartoon, but he voted right at the election and the Public Service Commission did not get the $35,000,000.

For highwaymen are as out-of-date as are city officials who refuse to tell their employers, the taxpayers, how the officials are administering their public trusts. Times have changed, but the present Public Service Commissioners know it not, as witness their refusal to answer the sixty-eight questions asked by Mayor F. D. Parker of San Fernando, who is a heavy Los Angeles taxpayer, as to what the commission has done with the millions it has received. By these tactics the Public Service Commission is rolling up a tremendous "No" vote for that $35,000,000 bond issue which the board is preparing to ask the voters to authorize next January so that the Power Bureau can pay its weary creditors and then spend the rest on propaganda for political ownership of hydroelectric-power production and distribution.

ELECTRICAL OSCILLATIONS

It is human nature being transformed by the new processes it employs? That eminent scientist, Dr. Charles P. Steinmetz, believes this electrical age is affecting the men and women who work under the new conditions it imposes, to an alarming extent. His conclusions at least will cause many employed in working out modern-day problems to pause and ponder.

In the last 100 years industry has passed from the age of manual craftsmanship to the new era of machine-made goods. In the matter of prices and output hand labor cannot compete with the product of the machine. Steam power started a mechanical revolution; electricity is destined to complete it.

And the disposition of the men whose labor keeps industry alive is changing with the role forced upon them by the new order of things. This change, too, will be more evident every year with the increased use of hydroelectric power.

Says Dr. Steinmetz: "In the present generation we have been able to harness, transmit and utilize the greatest form of all energy, electricity, and in so doing we have changed the laborer from a machine to a machine tender." This change requires fewer workmen and a higher grade of intelligence with consequently better remuneration. But it has upset preconceived notions and is the cause of unsettled conditions and lack of stabilization.

Dr. Steinmetz pushes the analogy even further and so opens a field for interesting speculation. He points to one of the difficulties engineers have had to overcome in protecting electrical systems against natural disturbances. So great has become the volume and force of the energy now developed that the principal effect lightning now has upon high-powered transmission lines is to cause a condition of oscillation.

This condition of oscillation in the field of electrical energy is akin to the unrest in the field of labor. Both are disturbing factors that must be met and overcome. There is lightning in the industrial situation, just as there is in the accumulation of the terrific forces of electricity over high-voltage wires.

Easily Frightened

Are the experts in human economics attending to the transmission of the world's man power as scientifically as the engineer to its electrical energy distribution?

THE CHESTER CONCESSION

According to Americans in Turkey, the Chester concession, viewed as a business venture, promises to be more profitable to Turkey than the Ottoman-American Development Company that must take all the risks.

The concession provides for a network of railways over Eastern Anatolia, to be built by the company at its own cost, all of which will revert to the Turkish government after ninety-nine years. It must build three separate lines on the same terms.

The roads traverse a country with a density of population somewhat less than that of Minnesota and which is not nearly so well developed. Construction of a railway system, according to Turkish specifications, will represent an investment of about $200,000,000.

Its success depends on the revenue to be derived chiefly from mines and oil wells at present, outside of the Mosul fields, mostly undiscovered. Too much emphasis has been placed on the Mosul oil field by the grant. The dispute for its possession between Great Britain and Turkey has not yet been decided.

Moreover, the concession clearly states that the exploitation of minerals must be secondary to the building of the railways. After a period of twenty years the company cannot object to third parties prospecting in the railway zone. These will get title to any mineral they discover.

Bridges and buildings must be of stone, reinforced concrete or steel under the inspection of the Turkish government at the company's expense. All rolling stock must be approved by the Minister of Public Works. Maximum passenger and freight rates are fixed by the government, but also in case of emergency has the right to take over temporarily the operation of the roads.

One-third of the directors must be Turkish subjects. Finally, if the company does not carry out its contract by the specified time, the government may immediately annul the concession.

IDLE AND HUNGRY

As winter comes on, England is beginning to make plans for the care of her unemployed. Some idea of the economic condition in Great Britain is gained from the facts that, for the fourth winter in succession, she faces a season where the unemployed lists number more than 1,250,000 men. The Minister of Labor has devised plans that will take care of 300,000 men, but no system of relief for the remaining workless can be figured out.

Besides unemployment benefits paid out by the government, it has given out contracts for government work looking to the needs of three years hence. These include the restoration of waterways, canals and railroads, many of which are in no way essential. New schools are being built, electrical needs for a larger population in certain districts anticipated, and harbors improved. Government lands are temporarily allotted to the jobless and hungry, so that they may set out small gardens to feed their families.

Even with all this work planned out to care for idle men, it is estimated that 1,000,000 will be unemployed this winter, nevertheless. Parliament is gloomily discussing the situation, for from this army of idle and hungry men will come the agitators who will argue in favor of Communism. And lack of bread will make many converts to them.

THE PARLIAMENTS FALL

BY EUGENE J. YOUNG

Spain, disgusted with the bickering, compromises and corruption of its politicians, has hailed the coup which has made King Alfonso its dictator, with the army and not the Parliament as his instrument.

Italy, after a year of trial of the dictatorship of Mussolini, agrees with his complete subordination of Parliament to himself and the King.

Bulgaria rejects to feel the firm grip of the dictatorship which upholds the power of King Boris and pays little attention to Parliament.

Bavaria recognizes Rupprecht as its King and the members of Parliament dare not question this condition.

Throughout Germany meetings are being held to advance the day when a new monarchist government shall come into being. The Parliament pretends to function in Berlin, but it does so with the knowledge that it continues to exercise its "sovereignty" only because the forces which want a military dictatorship are not yet ready to defy France.

In France there is a strong Royalist party which crows the minority in the Parliament with Fascist methods; and some keen observers believe there will be a monarchy in France within two years.

Peoples Turn to Autocracy

This set of circumstances makes the biggest fact in the European situation today. The Parliamentary system which was to assure the spread of democracy into the countries that had been more or less automatically ruled has gone into eclipse—at least temporarily.

It is being overturned by the will of the people, or that portion which is able to carry its will into effect. The very ones who, during and after the war, were most clamorous for real popular sovereignty now want the strong hand.

We are witnessing the beginning of an entirely new deal in European politics and it is well to take a clear look at the underlying conditions which are bringing it about.

the bitterest of the corruption haled the king Alfonso and not a word of protest. The trial of the king, agreed upon by the king, was the only way to the king. The king, however, because he was ousted from office by a legislative vote and in the control of executive power all kinds.

Under the European system, whereby the king exercises control over the main body of executive power, the king is responsible to the king, no Premier or Cabinet can approach a problem with certainty that he will be the next month or the next year. Before he takes any action he must be certain that on a legislative vote he will be the next month or the next year.

How this works we have seen in the recent course of the king. The king, however, because he was ousted from office by a legislative vote and in the control of executive power all kinds.

The War on Crime

By Geo. C. Henderson

Chapter 24

THE OLD-TIME YEGGS

A study of safe-crackers would not be complete without due consideration being given to the "old-timers" of the sheet-iron safe period.

With regard to time and methods of operation, yeggs may be divided into five groups. Old-Timers, Gunpowder Yeggs, Dynamite Yeggs, Nitroglycerin "Babies," and torch gangs.

The old-timers flourished before the Civil War and operated against the crude safe made of sheet iron bolted together, with riveted heads showing on the outside. These sheet-iron safes were the appearance of great strength, but in reality they succumbed readily to the attack of experienced robbers working with crowbars, picks, axes, chisels, jimmies and snippers.

There was comparatively little safe-cracking, however, indulged in during this pre-Civil War period, mainly because everyone was busy taking wealth out of a land of abundance. The reason was that money had not been concentrated in the hands of the few then as now. The yeggs of the old-time would get $25 or $50 for their trouble. And then, of course, the idea that an increased populace might take the money and hand it to a tree may have been a deterrent.

At any rate, the merchant in the "50s and '60s" was even more secure with his sheet-iron strongbox than was his more advanced brother of a later period with the so-called burglar-proof safe.

The old-time yegg broke into a store or even into a window or pried open a door with a crowbar, secure in the knowledge that no burglar alarm would be set off. The yeggs would bring down the police on him. If he escaped to another state or even into another country he was safe from apprehension because the interchange of identification photos was not practiced nor did telegraph lines herald his coming to other parts of the country.

SECURITIES FIRM OPENS IN SALARY INCREASES

Committee Urges Raising Pay of Police and Fire Chief to $500 Month

Thousands of roses, dahlias and other favorite blossoms of the Southern form the rainbow colors from scores of giant vases on the first floor of the California Bank Building yesterday in honor of the California Securities Company, which gave a reception to the public at its new home. It was estimated that nearly 5000 persons visited the new home of the company between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m.

The California Securities Company, ownership of which is vested in the shareholders of the California Bank, was incorporated in 1922 and heretofore occupied space in the Chapman Building. The new quarters comprise the first, second, third, fourth and eleventh floors of the California Bank at 625 South Spring street, the basement being used for the filing, cash, safe deposit and brokers' boxes.

According to experts, the safe deposit company is the strongest and most modern in Los Angeles. The building, a four-story structure, is 18 feet high in dimension, with an outer steel door, weighing 1500 pounds, and containing 1800 bolts. The door is automatically light up the interior on being opened, are equipped with safety devices. The burglar alarm system is said to be unexcelled and ventilation for the vaults is supplied by the mechanical system of forced draft.

PLEA MADE FOR HINDU'S CITIZENSHIP

Attorney Attacks Move to Cancel Naturalization Certificate

At an attack on the efforts made in the local federal court to cancel certificates of naturalization issued within the past few years to high-caste Hindus, in line with the recent decision of the United States Supreme Court declaring them ineligible for citizenship, was made in United States District Judge Bledsoe's court yesterday in argument on the motion of Mohan Singh to dismiss the petition to cancel the certificate of naturalization issued to the petitioner in 1919.

The argument against the petition was made by S. G. Pandit, a Hindu attorney of this city who was admitted to American citizenship some years ago by Superior Judge Morrison, and against whom a petition is now pending praying that it be canceled.

Judge Bledsoe took the matter under advisement.

Mr. Pandit asserted that as no fraud had been shown in the issuance of the original certificate, it could only be annulled or canceled by an appeal from the judgment granting the certificate instead of a proceeding to cancel it.

The investigation is in charge of David V. Cahill, special assistant to the Attorney-General, who has spent several months in organizing his forces and collecting evidence. A corps of investigators has been gathering data which will be presented to the grand jury.

If indictments are returned the charges probably will be that of using the mails in a scheme to defraud.

Mr. Pandit expected to be at work on the investigation for an extended period, in which time the charges that millions of dollars have been fraudulently obtained from Southern California residents will be thoroughly examined.

Loses Plea for Airplane Seized by Dry Officers

Mrs. Ida M. France will not get back the airplane confiscated by Federal prohibition authorities after they had arrested Charles E. Paul, who had leased the machine from Mrs. France's husband, D. D. France.

Paul and Clarence Brogner, the officers charged, used the airplane to take liquor to Santa Barbara.

Mrs. France filed a motion that the airplane be restored to her, asserting that it was her personal property, and that the husband had leased it to Paul for $30 a day unknown to her.

When the hearing on the petition came up in Judge Bledsoe's court yesterday Mrs. France was not represented by counsel and was stricken from the calendar.

Federal Sift of Oil Frauds Starts Today

The Federal grand jury investigation of the oil company frauds was delayed yesterday, due to the number of routine cases which blocked the way. These were disposed of in record time and the scene cleared for the evidence of postal inspectors today.

The investigation is in charge of David V. Cahill, special assistant to the Attorney-General, who has spent several months in organizing his forces and collecting evidence. A corps of investigators has been gathering data which will be presented to the grand jury.

SLAYER SUSPECT IN CELL

Costa was arrested by the 17th inst. in a complaint issued yesterday by Dep. Dist. Atty. McClellan. The slaying is said to have followed a quarrel between the defendant and the deceased. Costa was arraigned before Justice Wood, who set his hearing for Thursday. Costa was lodged in the County Jail without bail.

CHAPMAN TO SPEAK

"The Business Outlook" is the subject of an address to be given by C. C. Chapman, chairman of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce of Los Angeles at a luncheon tomorrow at the Alexander Hotel. The speaker will be Frank H. Berling and Orra E. Monnetta.

—and crisp, hot slices of toast

Some folks like toast thin. Some fairly thick. Some like it light brown. Some like it very well done. Some like it chewy. Some very brittle. The toaster that can please everybody is the Hotpoint Toast-over Toaster. It sits on the table. It toasts to everybody's personal ideas. A turn of the cool knob reverses the slice without finger or fork. It's a true servant—simple, clean, reliable. Keeps in order without coddling. Just another example of the difference between the commercial "electric appliance" and Hotpoint Servants.

WOMEN'S CLUB SEASON OPENS

Presidents' Council Meets at Ebell Clubhouse

Leaders From Different Parts of State Present

Mrs. Charles H. Toll Takes Charge of Meeting

BY MYRA NYE

Brilliantly opening the season for the Los Angeles District Federation of Women's Clubs, the presidents' council met yesterday for an all-day session in the Ebell Clubhouse on South Figueroa with the largest attendance in the history of the federation. All reservations were taken for the luncheon two weeks ago and yesterday more than 100 were turned away.

Mrs. Charles H. Toll presided for the first time such a council as chief executive, and there were present prominent club women from all over the State. Mrs. Grantland Seaton Long, as president of the Hostess Club, made the brief opening speech at the luncheon, and others for whom covers were laid at the guest table included, besides Mrs. Toll and Mrs. Long, Mrs. John C. Urquhart, State president; Mrs. O. W. March, of Chico, State vice-president; Mrs. Audrey Allen, State president of the Daughters of the British Empire, which yesterday affiliated with the State federation; Mrs. David Fraser of San Francisco, president of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs; Mrs. W. D. Mott of Ventura, Mrs. J. S. Trew-hella of Montebello, Mrs. Maynard Force Thayer of Pasadena, State chairman of citizenship; Mrs. Daniel J. Baptiste of Ventura, district treasurer; Mrs. Margaret J. Flick of Redondo, Mrs. Sidney Thomas Faley, Mrs. F. J. Wagner of Santa Monica, Mrs. J. T. Hicknell, Mrs. Warren Holden, Mrs. Audrey Allen, Mrs. Charles McKelvey, Mrs. Mollie Bloom Flagg, Mrs. W. W. Mayden, Mrs. Grace Frey.

TRAIN YOUR HAIR AS AN ACTRESS DOES

No class of people devotes as much time to beauty as actresses. Their class must be more careful to retain and develop their charms. Inquiry develops the information that in hair care they find it dangerous to shampoo with any makeshift hair cleanser. The majority say that to have the best hair wash and scalp stimulator at a cost of only a few cents, they need only get a package of cantilox from your druggist; dissolve a tea-spoonful in water and use the shampoo. This makes enough shampoo liquid to apply it to all the hair. After use the hair dries rapidly, with uniform color. Dandruff, excess oil and greasy scalp disappear and entirely disappear when you rub the hair with this. Your hair will be so fluffy it will look much heavier than it is. Its luster and softness will delight you while the stimulated scalp gains the health which insures hair growth. (Advertisement.)

JULIAN ELTINGE DISCOVERS GEM

Pleased With Lyrics of Girl Singer

Miss Norma Gregg

"WELL, where have you been all my life?" Norma Gregg, possessor of a beautiful voice, who is studying for the opera with Albert of this city, was greeted with this exclamation from Julian Eltinge after hearing Miss Gregg's music and lyrics. She immediately made arrangements to obtain some of her songs exclusively, and yesterday in the "Black and White"

Review at the Philharmonic he sang two of them: "If You Want to be in Fashion, Follow Me," and "Since I Fell in Love With Tobacco."

Mr. Eltinge has had great difficulty in getting songs to suit his peculiar needs, and to wheedle Miss Gregg to write several more songs. Tom Brown of the Six Brown Brothers, who are also with the revue, will use a dance number of Miss Gregg's, entitled "I Love to Dance."

partment of Co-operation with ex-servicemen and women, who introduced Miss Allen. It is planned with the hearty support of club women to make a complete and comprehensive survey of the needs in each community, to co-ordinate the efforts of the clubs, to create a high level of public sympathy, a keener appreciation of the responsibilities and by means of kindly, friendly service do all possible to correct previous mistakes and misunderstandings.

According to Miss Allen, all efforts to provide shelter and help for disabled ex-servicemen had met with the groundless fear that government hospitals would be over-run with women and thus crowd out the men. She pointed out that only those women of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps were eligible and their number was so small there could be no danger of crowding. She said those who needed help were in a desperate situation.

Throughout the day's session many noteworthy addresses on club work were given, notably those of Mrs. Urquhart, Mrs. Toll, Mrs. Lorbear, Mrs. E. R. Brainerd, Mrs. William Mabey, Mrs. Howard U. Sherwood and Mrs. Estey.

Orna Monette Tells of Library "Library Board Versus the City Council" would have been a much better subject for Orna Monette's talk yesterday before the members of the Women's City Club than the one she chose, "Inspiration Point." Mr. Monette, who is president of the board, told in detail the struggle which the members of the board had to gain the consent of the City Council for the presenting of a bond issue to the public for a vote, having to compromise by cutting their figure of $1,000,000.

Another thing not known to the general public, stated Mr. Monette, was that although Normal Hill belonged to the city and was to have been presented gratis for the purchase of a library, the City Council refused to deliver a deed to the property until a payment of $100,000 had been made. This sum, together with the amount which has been expended for branch libraries about the city, has considerably depleted the amount voted in the bond issue. The result was that the new library, Mr. Monette seemed rather skeptical of the result which could be obtained with this amount.

He said the possibility of another bond issue has been cut off by the Council by practically compelling the board to promise not to ask for more money to complete the project. In ending Mr. Monette said he considered a city library second only to the public schools, and he thought the board have a relative amount of consideration at the hands of the Council.

THE LAST WOMAN

BY ALMA WHITMAN

HIS PREY

This is a horrible tale of men that prey upon women. There is one that has been preying upon me for weeks. I am a monster! I nearly felt yesterday. Only nearly. But I was just in time that if I was one of those strong, muscular men upon whom the hope of civilization rests, I must positively slay him.

Oh, but he is not dapper, polished, and replete with fulsome unctious. Full of guile, suave, persistent, positively tender. The first time he called I dodged him successfully. The maid caught my high sign and I peeked behind the portiere as she convinced him I was much too busy to be disturbed. But the second time I inadvertently answered the door myself. The moment I saw his ingratiating smile I marshaled my defenses.

"You can't sell me a thing," I announced brightly. "Sorry, good morning."

Was he snubbed? They had fully prepared for such contingencies. He promptly started on and followed me. I was a little bit of a puzzle. I was a little bit of a puzzle. I was a little bit of a puzzle.

But perhaps I may make you a little gift. The creature pleaded unctuously. "My firm is making a gift of these brushes to housewives just to introduce our commodity. And then he launched forth into his very best salesman's ship talk. He had learned it off nicely by heart and he wasn't going to be balked. Oh, yes, amazingly, he got it all off his chest. I listened with awe. To think that the country is flooded with schools who are priming nice looking young men to prey upon my defenseless sex in our very homes. Every word he said was carefully calculated to prey upon my vanity and woman's crowning glory. There was another about a mop, designed to foster my housewifely ego, and a little sanitary efficiency. And another about bath brushes which stily hinted of imperfect back ablutions. I was so much alarmed that I hurried up and got my antiseptic soap talk off, too, and utterly flouted him on that occasion.

But he came back. You bet he came back. About three days later when I was installed at my typewriter in the very act of saving Europe. And he managed to convince the maid that he was a favored caller, asking me by name and hinting that I had a date with him. With his neat leather sample case, she probably mistook him for a doctor or a lawyer.

He was in no wise disconcerted at my chilly reception. Blithely, even poetically, he called my attention to the smiling sunshine and the charm of the earth after the rain. Then he rushed right into the business of brushes and my confounding. But I recalled the plight of Europe and politely but firmly edged him off the porch. Every upon my bedroom door I had lost the thread of my mastery scheme for her salvation. It is horrible to think of what one lone carefully trained American salesman has done to poor Europe.

And yesterday he came back again. This time with the debonaire insouciance of an old and privileged friend. He walked right in and shook hands as though he had known me all my life.

PRACTICAL RECIPES

Helps for Epicures and All Who Appreciate Good Cooking

Salad Dressing
It is impossible to make a mayonnaise without eggs, but a thick salad dressing can be made by mixing one tablespoon of flour with one tablespoon of sugar, one teaspoon of mustard, one teaspoon of vinegar, four tablespoonfuls of oil and four tablespoonfuls of cream, and cooking in a double boiler until thick and smooth. This dressing can be thinned with cream when cool.

Apple Charlotte
E. N. S. Palmdale, asks that we give directions for preparing our apple charlotte using stale bread. Pare, core and slice eight good-sized apples. Place in a casserole and add to these one cup of sugar and one teaspoon of butter. Place over a slow fire and stir until the apples are soft, then beat smooth. Drain off all moisture and fold into them the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs. Cut four thin slices of stale bread in triangle shapes and fry a nice brown on both sides in hot butter. Mix the apple mixture in the center of a round fireproof plate, place the pieces of bread around, to form a pyramid, dust with powdered sugar and serve.

Delectable Raisin Sauce
M. M. City, would like the recipe for raisin sauce that is used on roast beef by one of the San Francisco restaurants.

Brown one tablespoon of butter in a saucepan, when a nice brown color has been reached, add a cup of beef stock and stir while adding a cup of seedless raisins, two-thirds of a cup of finely chopped blanched almonds, half a lemon cut in small thin bits, one teaspoon of whole cloves, one-quarter of a teaspoon of cinnamon, and one tablespoon of grated horseradish. Boil up and serve.

Pollo Mole Colorado
T. K. L. has just returned from Mexico and asks that we tell her how to prepare a dish of chicken served there called "pollo mole Colorado."

Place in a frying pan two tablespoonfuls of lard, one finely chopped onion, one finely chopped clove of garlic. Fry until the onion is soft and clear; add three sliced and sliced of lemons, a nice brown on both sides; place in a bowl, add one teaspoon of sesame seeds and one teaspoon of anise seeds, and serve. Soak three chili peppers in boiling water until soft, remove seeds and stems, and add to the onion and garlic. Fry in a bowl, add one teaspoon of anise seeds and one teaspoon of sesame seeds, and serve. R. J. City, wants to know how the "Goffo" is made. They eat on long trips, or when they go hunting.

DRY CAKE
A. C. E. city, requests a recipe for dry cake as made by a negro cook who worked in one of the local restaurants some years ago.

Try this. Beat to a cream one cup of butter and beat into it one cup of sugar, beat smooth and beat in three eggs, one egg at a time, beating well after adding each egg. Beat in slowly one cup of sifted flour, one cup of milk, one cup of oil, and one cup of sugar. Pour into a greased pan, cover with the other layer and add all with chocolate icing.

TO KILL FLIES
H. A. Pomona, says that she is bothered with flies and asks if we can tell her how to get rid of them without poisons or stick papers.

Place in a saucepan two cups of milk, half a cup of sugar, and four tablespoonfuls of ground pepper and let simmer for ten minutes. Pour into small dishes and place around the kitchen and back porch.

BOILED TONGUE
A. F. city, is very fond of boiled fresh tongue and asks that we tell her how to cook and serve it.

Wash a medium-sized beef tongue in cold water, place in a large pot, add enough water to cover. Bring to a boil and simmer until tender. Trim carefully, skin, and place in a saucepan with two cups of water, one cup of vinegar, one cup of sugar, and one cup of salt. Simmer for one hour. Place in a hot platter, pour over the gravy and garnish with chopped parsley, ripe olives and slices of lemon.

CIDER SAUCE
R. R. C. city, asks that we furnish a recipe for cider sauce for baked ham.

Place in a saucepan three tablespoonfuls of butter, melt, stir in four tablespoonfuls of flour and stir until smooth. Add gradually two cups of the liquor that the ham was boiled in and one-third of a cup of cider. Stir until smooth, about ten minutes, season with paprika and serve hot.

SWEET CORN PUDDING
D. S. T. city, wants a recipe for fresh corn pudding.

Grate six ears of sweet corn into a bowl and add to them two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, half a teaspoon of salt, and the well beaten yolks of two eggs; beat well and fold the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs. Pour mixture into a buttered earthenware baking dish and bake in a quick oven thirty minutes.

SALZGURKEN
O. S. W. city, asks for the method used in preparing salzgurken, a clear, firm, salt cucumber pickle sold in the delicatessen stores.

Select half-grown cucumbers, lay in a wooden tub, cover with cold water and let stand overnight. Drain off the water and wipe each cucumber dry. Reject all that are soft at the ends. Place a layer of cucumbers in on the bottom of a new wooden barrel or wine keg, then a layer of the following spices: Fennel, dill, bay leaves and a few whole peppers. Cover these with a layer of grape and cherry leaves, with the again with layer of cucumbers and fill the barrel with alternate layers of spices and cucumbers. Make brine that will float an egg with salt and soft water, bring to a boil, cool, and pour the mixture in the barrel. Cover and tighten up the barrel. Place in the sun and allow it to stay there for two weeks, turning over every day. Let stand in cool, dry place for one month before using.

ALIMONY TO MRS. LAKENAN

Actress is Allowed Maintenance, but Amount is Cut From $1000 Month to $200

Leota Crider Lakenan, known on the screen as Leota Lorraine, will have to be content with $200 a month temporary alimony, Judge Guerin decided yesterday in Superior Court.

The alimony will be paid by Robert E. Lakenan, Jr., the husband, who indicated during the alimony proceedings yesterday that he will fight his wife's suit for a divorce and will name a number of co-defendants.

In awarding the alimony the court also instructed both husband and wife not to molest each other and issued a restraining order against the husband, Judge Guerin, however, refused to issue an injunction against the husband to restrain him from going to or being in the couple's Hollywood home.

The divorce complaint followed Jose would examine both bonds and the bondsmen. In this manner, it is believed, the practice of giving straw bonds can be virtually eliminated.

The action taken by the justices yesterday was suggested some time ago by the Los Angeles Crime Commission in furtherance of its plan to rid the city of criminals and to tighten legal machinery so that apprehension and punishment of criminals can be expedited and made more certain.

Justice Guerin, in his opinion, stated that the practice of giving straw bonds is a serious menace to the public safety and that it is the duty of the court to take action to eliminate it.

The justices also took action to curb activities of the underworld by ordering the arrest of the following persons: [List of names]

QUIZ DEMANDED BY COUNCILMEN

by the City Council in office then of sixty motor trucks but no official action resulted.

The speech of Councilman Mallard was the "big moment" in the Council's efforts to purchase ten motor-truck chassis for the engineering department. Without fail, the Councilmen nearly came to blows when any proposition for purchasing automobiles or motor trucks is before them, and yesterday was no exception.

The low bidder for the two-and-one-half-ton truck chassis was the Automobile Assembling Company, which offered to sell the Standard motor truck chassis to the city at $1994 each. Councilman Baker, chairman of the Council's supply committee, recommended that the truck order be divided equally between the Garford, Moreland and General Motors companies, but this suggestion was voted down. The majority members of the supply committee recommended that the low bid of the Standard truck agency be accepted but this the Council by a divided report also refused to do, so no trucks were purchased yesterday.

Councilman Mallard said after yesterday's session that when he attacked the activities of lobbyists and agents of companies having something which they were trying to sell the city he meant that if a real investigation were conducted by the Crime Commission the investigators would find a trail of graft.

ATTORNEY HEATH, PIONEER HERE, DIES

H. H. Heath, attorney who had been practicing in Los Angeles for the past eighteen years, died yesterday at his home, 781 East Fifth-street, aged 74 years. Mr. Heath came to California in 1870, teaching for several years in Napa county, and then taking up the practice of law in San Francisco until 1904. He leaves no immediate relatives. Funeral services will be conducted at Pierce Brothers' chapel today at 10 a. m. and interment will be in Inglewood.

When this action was taken the chamber became active in the interest of its members and Southern California manufacturers and the result.

The railroads mentioned in the petition are said by officials of the local organizations to be in favor of an equal basis for transportation charges.

The railroads named in the petition are the Arizona Eastern, the Santa Fe, the El Paso and Southern, the Rio Grande and El Paso, the San Diego and Arizona, the Southern Pacific, the Tijuana and Tecate, the Tucson Correll and Gila Bend, the Western Pacific and a number of allied roads.

POWER BUREAU TO SELL CIDER

film was dug up and Councilman Crivell took it away with him and is showing it to eastern audiences.

When Councilman Crivell returns he will report to the commission whether the film has been a merit driver and if it has been found that a few dollars can be picked up for the badly-bent dimensions of the picture.

Then Dr. John R. Haynes, who is a millionaire and has plenty of leisure, is expected to bid good-bye to Los Angeles for a while and take the film on the road. The Power Bureau believes that quite a few dollars will be gathered in and thus the evil day postponed when the commission must attempt to borrow another $500,000 from the city treasury for its highly successful and prosperous power department, or, failing in that, raise its rates.

LOWER FREIGHT RATE DEMANDED

Los Angeles Seeks Same Basis as Midwest

Tariff to Arizona Points the Cause of Petition

Chamber of Commerce and Jobbers Join Hands

Readjustment of railroad rates between Los Angeles and Arizona points is demanded in a petition forwarded yesterday to the Interstate Commerce Commission by the Chamber of Commerce and the Associated Jobbers. The action taken is in line with the campaign for balanced prosperity for Los Angeles.

The petition points out that Los Angeles, in the matter of freight rates, is not on a basis with the Middle West and East, the rates for which are more favorable. It is also pointed out that the high freight rates hinder the development of a trade area about this city and act as a hobble on the industrial development of the city.

SEVENTEEN ROADS INVOLVED

The case involves the Arizona Corporation Commission and seventeen railroads. The latter group includes practically every line engaged in handling traffic between Los Angeles and cities in the neighboring States.

P. P. Oregon, who drew up the petition, declared that when railroads of the West first came into competition with water-borne traffic, they seemed to be in a necessity for a low freight rate from the East. In the years that have followed, he said, numerous adjustments have been made in the rates but so far Los Angeles is still on an unequal basis with cities in the Middle West and East.

Some months ago the Southern Pacific Railroad announced special rates which would be as low as those for other cities and a date was set for their becoming effective. Prior to that date the Arizona commission in preparing another case made special mention of the new rates and as a consequence they were withdrawn by the Southern Pacific.

PETITION IS RESULT

When this action was taken the chamber became active in the interest of its members and Southern California manufacturers and the result.

The railroads mentioned in the petition are said by officials of the local organizations to be in favor of an equal basis for transportation charges.

When Councilman Crivell returns he will report to the commission whether the film has been a merit driver and if it has been found that a few dollars can be picked up for the badly-bent dimensions of the picture.

Editing a newspaper on the Century

"This is written on the road from New York to California via the Twentieth Century" says Arthur Brisbane, the New York editor, in his "Today" column.

Busy men of affairs—editors, bankers, merchants, manufacturers—traveling overnight between New York and Chicago on the restful water level route of the New York Central, find that they can dispatch more unfinished business in the seclusion of Twentieth Century Limited compartments and drawing rooms than in their own offices.

But I made the mistake of standing too near a stairway. They rushed me and I didn't stop until I reached the bottom of the second flight. So I went away from there.

TELLS OF EARLY DAYS HERE

Lew Dockstader Recalls Time When He Held Option on 100 Acres on Broadway

"I wish I now owned the 100 acres on Broadway on which I had an option back in 1875." Thus commented Lew Dockstader, monarch of minstrels, as he gazed out over the city from his room on the seventh floor of the Alexandria.

Being in a reminiscent mood, the veteran blackface entertainer, who is now appearing at a local theater, went on to tell of his experiences in Los Angeles on his first visit here.

"I stayed at a hotel called the Pico House," he said, "a long, low building, I think in the north end of town. I don't suppose it's here now. It was about the only hotel in town. Most of the buildings then, I believe, were adobe shacks. Al. Johnson, whom he picked up in Fort Worth, Tex.

The minstrel show, which Mr. Dockstader characterized as the only strictly original form of entertainment ever developed in America, had an accidental beginning, he says.

"It started back in 1853, or thereabouts, when four young fellows got together now and then in New York and entertained each other, playing the banjo and adding the bones. A fiddle was added and finally dialogue and funny stories, and at last they began giving public entertainments. And from that time on the minstrel show has been a recognized institution in the world of entertainment in this country."

PLAYGROUND SOUGHT FOR BUNKER HILL

Request to City Council Tells of Elimination of Recreation Plot

Pleading for a playground for the children in the Bunker Hill section of the city, Mrs. Harry White of 220 South Bunker Hill avenue has sent to the City Council a request that a recreation ground be provided for that section of the city through of Fifth street from Grand avenue to the west and the preparing of the Normal Hill site for the new $1,500,000 central public library has resulted in the elimination of the playground long located on Normal Hill. Mrs. White in her letter to the Council said:

"A most serious situation has been brought about by the elimination of the playgrounds formerly located on Normal Hill, the result being that there is no playground, school, day nursery or kindergarten to supply the numerous children living in that district, roughly bounded by Sixth street, California street, Hill street and Figueroa street. In this territory, generally known as the Bunker Hill district, there are many children who are deprived of opportunities in this reward, and a very serious situation is brought about. They are not permitted to play in the street, and as most of them live in rethorn houses without grounds, there is no provision for any sort of recreation, or for the care of these children. Many of the parents are working people and the children are alone all day.

"I therefore, on behalf of these children and their parents, who have asked me to represent them in this connection, earnestly entreat your honorable body to take such immediate means as may be necessary and proper to relieve this deplorable condition. Property is cheaper on Bunker Hill than in other sections of the city, therefore it seems reasonable that a plot of ground should be secured, centrally located in this district, for the establishment of a playground and such other purpose as might seem proper to relieve this situation."

Detective Finds Stolen Auto at His Own House

It's getting so it isn't safe to park a stolen car anywhere. It might be in front of a policeman's house.

When Detective Lieutenant Knapp woke and stretched himself yesterday he saw, he says, a Ford containing three sound-asleep youths at the front curb. Dressing hurriedly, he went out to question them. Two awoke and ran but the third was slower coming out of the coma and Knapp caught him.

He said he was Frank Veehoney, fifteen years of age and that he and the other boys had taken the car in Venice Sunday night for a joy ride, according to Knapp. Veehoney was placed in Juvenile Hall and the police are looking for his companions.

DOPE SELLER SENTENCED

Joe Solano, convicted of violation of the Harrison narcotic law, was sentenced to two and one-half years in the Federal penitentiary by United States District Judge James. A motion for a new trial was argued and denied. Solano sold $3 worth of dope, it was shown at the trial.
